

Council OKs Senior Tax Exemption

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Kingston Common Council met officially for the last time in 1970 Monday night and unanimously approved legislation to liberalize the law on tax exemptions for the city's senior citizens.

The approval of that legislation was expected.

Unexpected was an announcement by Mrs. Eleanor Bruhn that she was serving her last meeting as deputy city clerk.

Monday morning, Mayor Francis R. Koenig had notified Mrs. Bruhn, who has served as provisional deputy city clerk since Dec. 8, 1961, that she would be reverted to her permanent Civil Service status as senior typist. The position calls for a yearly salary of $6,500, an increase for Mrs. Bruhn of $200 from this year.

Today, the mayor announced that he would be appointing Mrs. John (Rosemarie) Hogan to fill the position as permanent deputy city clerk. Mrs. Hogan, the vice chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee, took and passed the Civil Service examination for deputy city clerk on July 18 of this year.

Mrs. Nadja Yonta, the clerk typist in the city clerk's office, will be transferred to the Housing Code Commission where the mayor said there was a need for another full time secretary due to the heavy work load in that office which includes the city's zoning, housing and planning departments.

Mayor Koenig said today that he expects to sign the senior citizen legislation approved by the Council last night. The mayor had recommended to the Council that it raise the amount of money that a person over 65 years old could earn to qualify for a 50 per cent tax exemption from the current $3,000 per year to $4,000 per year. The Council, by a 12-0 vote (Alderman Michael S. Perry, the Seventh Ward Democrat, was absent) approved the mayor's recommendations. Another key proviso of that legislation is that under the new law, only one of the persons in a marriage has to be over 65 years of age for the household to qualify for the exemption whereas previously, both had to be at least that age.

City Assessor Matthias G. Richardson emphasized today, however, that the increase in earning limits from $3,000 to $4,000 applies only to city taxes, not school taxes. Koenig said that the Council's Law and Rules Committee had met with school board officials but that the board decided to take no action on raising its income limits from the current $3,000.

Mrs. Bruhn's announcement last night that she was no longer the deputy city clerk, came as a "complete surprise" to most of the aldermen, according to Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo.

She did not occupy her accustomed position at the podium next to City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco last night but came in toward the end of the meeting and sat in the audience. A motion was made and seconded to adjourn the meeting and was approved by voice vote unanimously, and then, according to Gallo, Mrs. Bruhn came to the Council rail and asked to call the roll "for the last time as deputy city clerk."

Gallo granted the request but refused to allow remarks from the aldermen because the city charter states that the only business that may be discussed at a special meeting is the topic for which the meeting was called.

Mrs. Bruhn was given a standing ovation by the aldermen.

Mayor Koenig today termed Mrs. Hogan "uniquely qualified" for the position of deputy city clerk. Koenig noted her more than 22 years of employment in the capacity of office manager in a Poughkeepsie firm, her knowledge of city government and her ability to operate all office equipment including computers.

Speaking of computers, Koenig said that the city would "eventually" have to turn to the use of computers to save money and that Mrs. Hogan, with her experience in that field, would be in a position to train other city employees in the operation of the new machines.

She will be paid at a yearly rate of $7,500, up $1,300 from this year's rate of pay for the position of deputy city clerk, but the mayor said that her qualifications "more than offset" the differential in salary. He added that Mrs. Hogan was taking a pay cut to come to work for the city.

Mrs. Bruhn, a lifelong Republican was appointed provisional deputy city clerk in December of 1961 by then Mayor-elect John J. Schwenk. She took the Civil Service examination for permanent appointment twice, in July of this year and July of last year but failed to pass it.

Basque Verdict Brings Threats Of Retaliation

BURGOS, Spain (AP) — Basque nationalists swore vengeance today against the military judges who sentenced six Basques to death and nine others to a total of 351 years in prison.

"There will be retaliation," one member of the Basque terrorist organization ETA warned after the court handed down the sentences Monday. He singled out Capt. Antonio Troncoso de Castro, the legal advisor to the court-martial, and another ETA source said of De Castro: "He better have a bodyguard."

Denunciations of the death sentences and appeals for clemency poured into Madrid from around the world, and Basque sympathizers or foes of the Franco regime held demonstrations in cities throughout Europe.

Some led to violence. In San Sebastian, the Basque capital on Spain's northern coast, youths roamed the streets Monday night overturning cars and smashing windows. A bomb exploded in front of the Spanish Consulate in Rome but caused no significant damage. More than 200 demonstrators broke into the Spanish Embassy in Brussels and ransacked some of the rooms.

Defense lawyers for the 15 Basques filed appeals to the military commander of Burgos, but it appeared unlikely that he would accept them. If he does not and signs the death warrants, only clemency from Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Spanish chief of state, can stop the executions before a firing squad.

Franco, facing his worst crisis since the Spanish civil war, met with his Cabinet to discuss whether he should commute the death sentences.

Announcement of the sentences, brought new appeals for clemency from the Vatican and the governments of Italy, France, Australia, Denmark, Norway and Belgium.

There was no word from Washington of any intercession by the U.S. government, a major military and financial ally of the Franco regime. But Pete T. Cenarusa, Idaho's secretary of state and of Basque origin himself, said the State Department told him it would "do something" if the death sentences are not commuted. Attention in Washington was directed to the sentencing of two Jews to death in the Soviet Union for plotting to hijack an airliner.

Denunciations of the Spanish death sentences came from the World Council of Churches, the International Commission of Jurists in Geneva, the Spanish Basque government-in-exile in Paris, and six French Nobel Prize winners.

Moscow newspapers published condemnations of the sentences under such headlines as "Cruel Sentence on Basques," "The Tyrants Passed the Sentence on Patriots," "The Sentence Must Be Abrogated," and "The Hangmen Must Not Get Their Way."

Eugen Beihl, the honorary West German consul kidnapped by Basques in San Sebastian on Dec. 1 and freed Christmas Eve, said he was "astonished" at the court's "most severe" sentences. Many had thought his release would result in leniency by the court.

The six defendants sentenced to die were charged with killing Meliton Manzanas, the provincial chief of the political police in San Sebastian. Three of the six received double death sentences, and all but one also drew prison terms ranging from 27 to 60 years.

The nine other defendants were charged with banditry, terrorism, possession of arms, disseminating illegal propaganda and illicit association connected with the ETA terrorist movement to gain independence for Spain's three Basque provinces. Their sentences ranged from 12 to 70 years.

The court acquitted a 16th defendant who has been committed to a mental hospital.

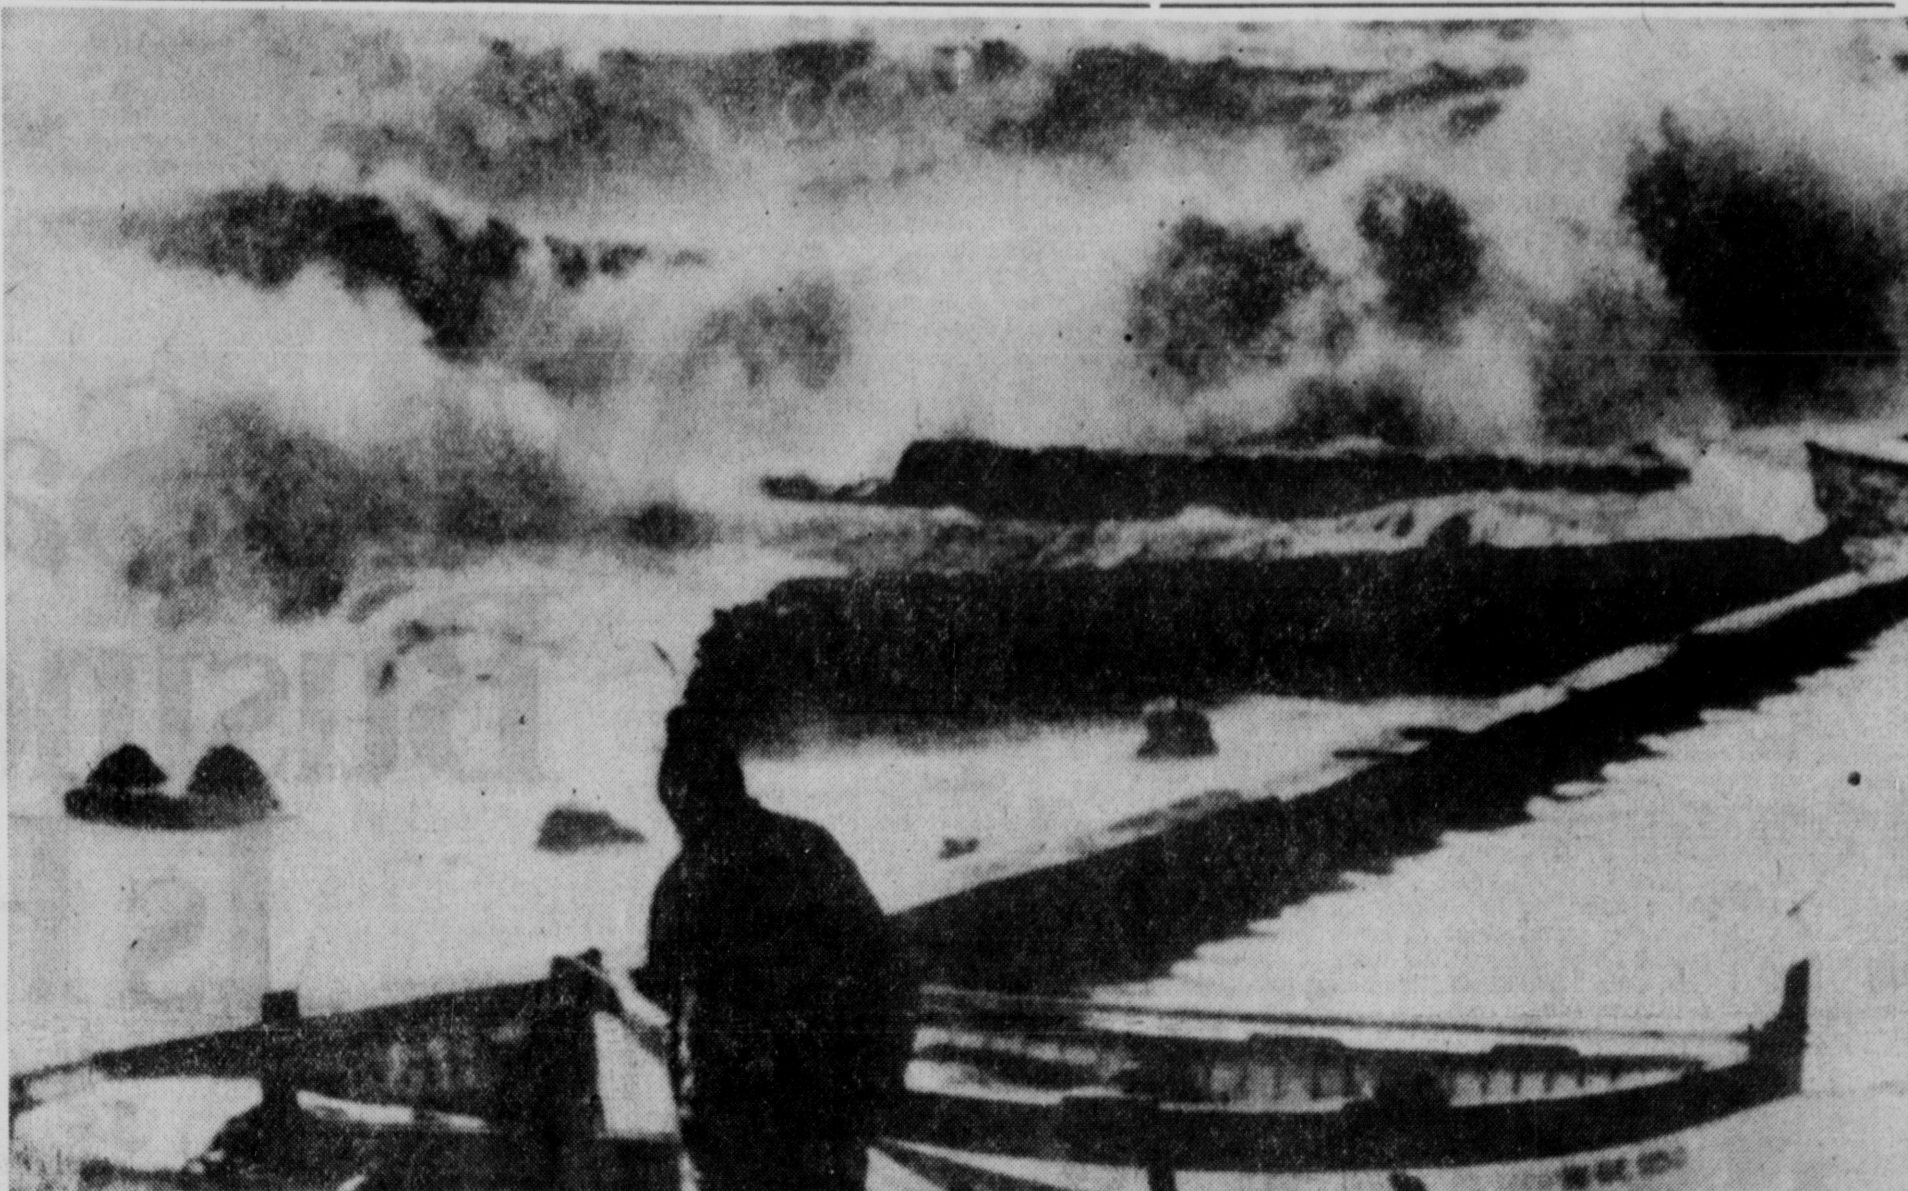

The judges did not say why they gave double death sentences to three of the accused. One defense lawyer said it might be because the three were convicted of both murder and banditry, also a capital crime.

Kremlin Hurries the Appeals for Hijackers

MOSCOW (AP) — Acting with unusual speed, the Soviet government scheduled a hearing Wednesday on appeals from the 11 defendants in the Jewish hijacking trial. The speedup in the proceedings was seen as an attempt to end the worldwide furor over the severity of the sentences.

It appeared that the death sentences given six Basque nationalists in Spain Monday might help the Kremlin achieve this, much as the British-French invasion of the Suez in 1956 blunted Western condemnation of the Soviet repression of the Hungarian revolt.

Normally an appeal of a conviction takes six to eight weeks

Two Killed, 53 Are Injured, Rescue Workers Commended

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (UPI) — As the Trans Caribbean Airways 727 jetliner touched down at Harry S. Truman International Airport, the 55 persons aboard heard a cracking noise and the plane broke up and burst into flames.

Fifty-three managed to crawl and scramble to safety. Two died in the wreckage.

The jet was arriving on a flight from New York after a stop at San Juan, P.R., when it crash-landed Monday afternoon.

Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) investigators arrived from Miami Monday night and there was speculation the plane may have been trying to gain altitude for another approach after the pilot misjudged the first approach. FAA officials refused comment.

The two dead were identified as Victor Vanyo, 10, and his father, John Vanyo, of Berkeley Heights, N.J. Vanyo's wife, three daughters and an infant son were hospitalized.

Aviation authorities said the runway at Truman Airport seemed certain to come under criticism from the FAA. The strip is 4,650 feet long, nearly 4,000 shorter than most airports capable of handling big jets.

The jet bounced as it touched down and one of the wheels flew off as the plane shot down the runway. The jet knocked down a cyclone fence, ripped out power lines and broke into three pieces as it plowed 200 feet up a hill.

Pearl Thomas, 41, of New York City, said there was a cracking sound as the plane touched down.

"The plane was shaking all over. The seats in front of me came unbolled. I looked to the left and saw fire with glass flying all over. People were tumbling up and down the aisles."

"I heard people screaming," she said. "I thought 'Oh, my God!'"

She said she escaped through a hole in the fuselage and crawled out amidst the flames. "I looked back at the wreckage and couldn't believe I was alive."

Aviation officials said it was amazing only two people died. They credited the crew and many passersby who rushed up the hill to help passengers out of the blazing plane.

The 11 Leningrad defendants took a restrained approach, apparently feeling that any outspoken criticism from it would only stiffen the determination of the men in Moscow. A spokesman in Washington said President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers had conferred about the case twice during the weekend, and the U.S. government has "taken steps which we hope will be helpful."

Two U.S. senators urged the Senate floor that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant intercede. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also called on Nixon to express U.S. concern, and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asked the Inter-Governmental Committee for European Migration at Geneva to seek from the Soviet government freedom of emigration for all Russians.

Jewish groups took to the streets in several European cities Monday, the Soviet Embassy in Washington was picketed, and the militant Jewish Defense League demonstrated outside the U.S. Mission to the United Nations in New York.

the year, but they were on cargo charter or ferry flights. The last previous fatal crash of a scheduled passenger flight occurred in November 1969 when a Mohawk Airlines plane hit a mountain near Glens Falls, N.Y., killing 14 persons.

The Trans Caribbean flight had originated in New York City and stopped in San Juan en route to the Virgin Islands, east of Puerto Rico. Aboard were 46 passengers and seven crew members.

According to Ellenville State Police, the accident occurred at 1 a.m. on Route 209 when Petty Officer 3/c Lee A. Wright, 20, was riding alone in a car owned by his father, Young Wright, a.m. of injuries sustained in the accident.

Island Seabee base, was traveling along the road when the car veered off the right side of the highway and as he attempted to straighten the course of the vehicle, he over corrected and skidded down the highway and hit the Pomeroy car broadside. The impact hurled him 50 feet from the vehicle.

According to Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp and Troopers Francis Steiner and Oscar Gray, Wright died at 4:45 a.m. of injuries sustained in the accident.

Pomeroy, who was riding in his car with his wife and two children, received leg and head injuries. His wife, Lois, sustained neck injuries and a fractured jaw. The two children, Penelope, 9 and Wayne, 7 at the time, received contusions, lacerations and bruises and were treated and released from the hospital.

Trial counsel for the Wrights was Francis J. Vogt of the firm of Larkin and Vogt. John J. Schick served as personal counsel for the Wrights.

Early Finding Suicide In Amenia Man's Death

RED HOOK — A preliminary finding of suicide has been reported by Dr. E. Allen Larkin, of Amenia, an assistant Dutchess County medical examiner, in the death of a 56-year-old tool manufacturer, who reportedly shot himself in the head at his home on Route 199 in this township.

Georgé C. Clarke was found dead in a bed in his apartment above his tool shop at 11:45 a.m. Monday, according to Rhinebeck State Police who investigated.

The discovery was made by the victim's sister, Florence Clarke, who summoned troopers. According to an investigation by BCI Investigator G. R. Olsen and Trooper K. E. Kremenick, Clarke fired a shot from a 30.06 caliber rifle into his head. The gunshot went through the blanket, through the man's eye and exited out the back of his head. The bullet, troopers said, passed through the wall of the building and could not be found. The rifle was still clutched in Clarke's hands. According to investigators, Clarke had been despondent for some time because of a slump in business. Examination of the body indicated the shooting occurred about 12:15 a. m. yesterday.

Adjourn Proceedings Against UCCC Teachers

KINGSTON — Court proceedings against eight Ulster County Community College teachers today were adjourned until Friday, Jan. 15 at 10 a.m. The teachers are required to answer show cause orders why they should not be held in contempt of court for refusing to end their work stoppage at the Stone Ridge campus in mid-November.

Affidavits from both prosecution and defense counsels must be submitted by Friday, Jan. 8, according to Supreme Court Judge Louis G. Bruhn. Judge Bruhn will hear the case that was put off from early December to today to give attorneys more time to prepare their cases.

Today, Vogt said that as of Jan. 1 "I will no longer be engaged in the practice of law nor will my name appear as an associate or in partnership in any law firm."

Probing Oil Spill At Port of Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is probing an oil spill at the Port of Albany that sent an estimated 213,000 gallons of fuel into the Hudson River Sunday.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said the spill occurred when a barge, "Hygrade 42", apparently struck a submerged object near Van Wie's Point two miles south of Albany, and had one of its eight tanks drained of No. 2 fuel oil.

Captain of the port, Cmdr. R. H. Bazajou, said much of the oil was swept downstream beneath a layer of ice. He said only a few persons had reported seeing the oil, but added, "If this had happened during the boating season, we would have been swamped with calls by now."

An Army Corps officer, Edward H. Meiser, said the amount spilled was the largest amount ever lost in the Albany area.

According to the Coast Guard, the vessel was headed north toward the Atlantic Richfield Co. when the mishap occurred.

C-H Reports Changes

KINGSTON — Proposed changes in the cost of electric and gas service, as submitted to the Public Service Commission in conformity with the commission's order of Dec. 17, were reported today by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation and are less than originally proposed in March of this year.

The cost of electricity for an average residential use of 500 kilowatt-hours per month will be $13.73 compared with $12.57 at the present time. Similarly, the cost of electricity for an average residential use of 100 kilowatt-hours per month will be $5.60 compared with $5.01 today.

The proposed cost of gas for a typical residential heating customer with budget billing will be $24.95 per month compared with $23.35 today.

The effect of the proposed electric and gas rates on individual commercial and industrial customers will vary according to their demand and usage requirements. The proposed increases for these groups of customers, however, are in line with increases for residential customers, a Central Hudson spokesman said.

Who Says New York's Business Climate Is Healthy?

New England* Says So: "...hypothetical tax bills for three model corporations at 83 specific locations in the New England states plus five of their closest competitors...run from a minimum in Utica, N.Y., to a high in Hartford, Conn...."

"...the chemical, machinery and textile firms could have net profits, after taxes, higher by approximately 14, 15 and 22 percent, respectively, were they located in Utica instead of Hartford."

"...the highest tax locations in the Northeast are almost always sites where firms must pay substantial personal-property taxes—taxes levied on manufacturers' machinery, equipment and inventories."

"...Personal property of manufacturers is completely exempt from taxation in New York...."

"...special incentives in New York amount to a sizable tax break for new industry and investment. For example, when the concessions apply, the additional allowances reduce corporate income taxes (for a hypothetical textile corporation) by approximately 49 percent in New York."

*New England Business Review, published by Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

Michigan* Says So: The combined state and local tax bill for five hypothetical manufacturing firms was lower in Buffalo, N.Y., than in five other major industrial cities in five different states—Detroit, Michigan; Cleveland, Ohio; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Indianapolis, Indiana; and Newark, New Jersey.

New York does not levy state or local taxes on personal property....

These taxes, levied on machinery, equipment and inventories, can be a heavy fixed burden on industry. As indicated by the study, the tax on personal property alone at some of the locations was higher than the franchise tax the corporation would pay at Buffalo in New York State.

*Tax study commissioned by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

Pennsylvania* Says So: "...some competing industrial states have recently incorporated business incentives into their tax structures. New York State, for example, has this year enacted a 1% tax credit under the franchise tax for business investment, including structural improvements."

The state business tax burden in New York is less than in half a dozen major industrial states, according to statistics collected by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, based on U.S. Census Bureau data.

Ohio, California, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and North Carolina all collect a higher percentage of their total tax revenues from business taxes than New York does.

Massachusetts and New Jersey, for example, collect 21 percent of their revenues from business taxes, compared to 15.9 percent by New York.

In an analysis by another Pennsylvania agency—of total state and local taxes paid by hypothetical corporations representing seven major industrial groups in 11 states—New York's combined state-local tax bill was second lowest for four of the seven industries and third lowest for two others.

The New York state-local tax bill was less than that for New Jersey, Ohio and Illinois in six of the seven categories; New York's was less than that of five other states—Michigan, West Virginia, Indiana, Massachusetts and Maryland—for all seven groups of industries.

Cogar Corporation's President Says So:

At the dedication of Cogar Corporation's new Technology Division facility in Dutchess County, New York—the first of this electronic firm's two new facilities in New York State—President George R. Cogar said:

"Most of the major innovations in electronics and computers are coming from firms located in New York State and elsewhere on the Eastern seaboard."

"I believe that New York State has the capability and resources to become the capital of the electronics industry...."

"Our decision to locate in New York was predicated on several key factors. Among them are the state's general attitude toward business and its innovative programs in meeting the challenges of social and environmental change."

"New York has demonstrated unparalleled leadership in developing and maintaining a business and social climate necessary to attract a growing work force."

Triulzi the First Donor

KINGSTON — As holder of membership card Number 1, Anthony R. Triulzi, president of the Ulster County Blood Bank, became the first member of the Bank to give Blood Monday under the new protection plan. The collection of blood for possible use by Bank members and dependents that started with Triulzi's pint, began four days before full benefits are slated to begin Jan. 1. Triulzi gave towards the initial 25 pints, being collected this week in anticipation of membership needs over the New Year's holiday.

The president and the Bank's executive director, Wilfred Springer, said appointments have been made with the first group of members who will be giving blood through the month of January. The two said they anticipate that 75 pints will be collected under the plan in January. Springer said the members will be giving at either the Kingston City Lab or the Ellenville Community Hospital.

The benefits for members and dependents slated to go into effect on Jan. 1, he said, is for those who joined prior to November 1.

"As of that date," said Springer, "they will be fully covered for free blood replacement for themselves and their dependents. Likewise, coverage

Nixon Signs Job Safety Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed the Occupational Health and Safety Act, the first national guidelines designed to stem the rising number of job-related deaths and injuries. The new law, a major goal of organized labor in the 91st Congress, sets nationwide job health and safety standards for 55 million workers. It is aimed at combating an annual job death rate of 14,500, in addition to 2 million job-related injuries. Nixon signed the bill during ceremonies at the Labor Department.

Laird Puts it to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says Congress—not the Pentagon—will be responsible if the proposed Nixon administration goal of a zero draft and all-volunteer Army is not reached before 1974.

Laird predicted Monday draft calls will drop next year but declined to estimate how much they would fall below this year's 163,500. He said there could be no draft at all in mid-1973—but only if Congress approves boosts in pay and benefits.

Congress turned down a 20 per cent pay raise for lower-grade military men this year, but Laird said increased pay and benefits will be included in next year's budget.

He said a volunteer Army of 2 million to 2.4 million could be reached in mid-1973 "if we can meet the timetable in Congress—increases in pay, housing and education" to compete with private industry for the manpower. Congress also must approve Nixon's proposal to begin phasing out the draft when it expires next June 30th, but Laird did not mention this. The proposal has attracted little congressional support so far.

Laird also said: "So-called spying on civilians had been conducted by military agents under the previous administration, but will not be conducted under the Nixon administration. He said such observation in connection with civil disturbances could 'be more properly performed by the Justice Department.'"

Montreal Order Holds

MONTREAL (UPI) — Its 85-day kidnap crisis finally ended, the Canadian government gave no immediate indication today when it would restore the civil liberties suspended more than two months ago.

And it was not immediately clear how seriously the governments unprecedented crackdown against the Quebec Liberation Front had damaged the terrorist-separatist group. The confrontation between the federal government and the Quebec separatists — both peaceful and violent—appeared certain to continue.

Police Monday raided a snowbound isolated farmhouse in St. Luc, 25 miles south of Montreal, and captured brothers and Simard appeared to account for the last of the chief suspects in the kidnappings of Laporte and British diplomat James R. Cross, who was released unharmed earlier this month.

The law provides that the secretary of labor will draft, with advice from labor and business groups, a set of health and safety standards. He also will administer the standards through labor department inspectors.

An independent three-member board, appointed by the President and subject to Senate confirmation, will enforce the standards.

The law represented only half-a-loaf for labor, which wanted standard-setting and enforcement left to the labor secretary while the administration and business groups wanted an independent board set standards and the second separate board to enforce them.

The new standards, when fully effective, will affect every industry not now covered by federal standards, such as railroads and mines, and will supersede state standards if they are not at least as tough as the new federal regulations.

The law provides that 120 days from today, an "interim" set of standards, consisting of the current regulations affecting railroads and mines as well as so-called "national consensus" health and safety standards enacted voluntarily by industry, will prevail nationwide until the permanent new regulations are drafted by the secretary.

Israel, Parliament Called On Talks, Confidence

By United Press International

The Israeli Knesset (Parliament) was summoned into special session today to approve a return to Middle East peace talks and to crush a motion of no confidence in Prime Minister Golda Meir's government.

The opposition Free Center party, which has only two parliamentary seats, offered the no-confidence motion Monday after the cabinet voted to return to the talks under U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Political sources said the 120-member Parliament would overwhelmingly approve the cabinet's decision to resume the talks.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said the Israeli action was a maneuver to ensure an extension of the cease-fire, now scheduled to expire Feb. 5, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram reported.

"We shall not allow this maneuver to succeed," Sadat said. "Should the other side exert sincere efforts to apply the (U.N.) Security Council resolution, we on our part will continue our efforts in the same direction."

"But we shall oppose any maneuver aimed at a third extension of the cease-fire and at depriving us of our right to recover our lands."

The Lebanese government was considering requesting a Security Council session to protest a major Israeli raid into Southern Lebanon Monday.

Military sources in Beirut said helicopter-borne Israeli troops killed a child and a man, destroyed four houses and damaged 22 others in the raid. Israel said the houses at the village of Yaatar, four miles inside Lebanon, had been used as headquarters for Arab guerrilla attacks on Israel.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said an Israeli Army patrol killed an Arab guerrilla early today in a clash

Search Continues in Atlantic For 21 Crewmen from Tanker

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (UPI) — Coast Guard aircraft continued a search of the Atlantic today for 21 crewmen from the Panamanian tanker Chryssi who abandoned their sinking ship Saturday and were last seen in a lifeboat in storm-tossed waters.

The Coast Guard halted its search of the ship's last location 450 miles from here late Monday because of darkness.

A Norwegian vessel, the Ross Mount, picked up 17 survivors, including the captain, Monday morning about 82 miles from the sinking vessel. One of the two coast guard search planes spotted an overturned lifeboat and two life jackets, but no signs of life near the Chryssi.

The Coast Guard said oil from the vessel covered the water's surface in a circle 30 miles wide.

Also missing in the Atlantic were six of the 37 crewmembers of the Finnish oil tanker Ragny which split in half Sunday about 600 miles east of the New Jersey coast. One crewman from an American freighter which came to the tanker's assistance was also missing. He disappeared when a lifeboat overturned.

The Coast Guard said its efforts in the area of the Finnish vessel were hampered by continued bad weather. The 31 men rescued were all aboard the stern section of the tanker; the six missing men were believed to have been aboard the bow section which overturned.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defense says Charles Manson and three women codefendants are innocent of the Sharon Tate murders and the real killers are still at large.

Paul Fitzgerald, head of the four-attorney defense team, also told the jury Monday that the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, lied under oath in order to save her own life.

In the first day of his often dramatic summation, Fitzgerald gave the jurors their first look at the defense side of the case.

Dad Can't Cut Off 'Hippie' Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — A family Court judge has ruled a father cannot cut off support funds to his 20-year-old college student daughter because he disapproves of her "hippie" life-style.

Judge Millard L. Midonick in November, ordered the father to pay $5,750 to his daughter by noon Monday or go to jail for 30 days for contempt of court.

However, the sentence was stayed until the five-judge Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court reviews the unusual ruling. The unidentified father, described by the judge as "a prominent member of the litigating bar," had argued if he were ordered to pay his daughter "any minor would be able to set up housekeeping away from home and scornfully badger the father by court proceedings to underwrite any manner of living approved by mindless courts."

Midonick rejected this charge and said at "some point minors must have some right to their own views and needs for their independent and painful transition from minority to adulthood short of matching every fancy of their parents."

The father called his daughter, identified only as a student at the University of Louisville, a "hippie" who "stinks." He cut off her financial support in April because he was unhappy with her grades and the fact she had moved out of a dormitory into an apartment with another girl.

Midonick said the girl had improved her grades, lived wholesomely, returned to good standing with the university, visited a psychiatrist and made

The Coast Guard received already under water. The ship was sinking at the rate of about five feet per hour and at noon Monday, 60 feet of the bow remained above the water, according to the Coast Guard.

Lawyer Tells Tate Jury... Defendants Are Innocent

"Those glasses were introduced into the residence by the person or persons actually responsible for the deaths," said Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Kasabian was the state's only asserted eyewitness to any of the killings. Fitzgerald said she may have made up the whole tale to win immunity from prosecution.

"If you could save your life by making up a story, wouldn't you?" asked the attorney.

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, mother of two, testified that she went with members of Manson's hippie-style "family" on a murder mission to Miss Tate's home, where five persons were slaugh-members of the tanker had abandoned ship at 6:40 p.m. EST Saturday when the ship began "breaking up in heavy seas," according to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard quoted survivors as saying all 21 other crewmen had been in one lifeboat.

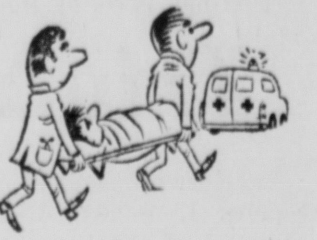

The Coast Guard Monday gave the location of the Chryssi as 450 miles southeast of here and 270 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Meanwhile, the 31 rescued crewmen from the Ragny were taken aboard the Coast Guard cutter Escanaba, one of three LaBianca, wealthy food store proprietors. She was indicted the stricken 540-foot tanker with Manson and the other after it sent out a distress call.

women on murder-conspiracy charges but went free after she testified.

"It's when she's got a gun up to her head, when she sees that her life is hanging in the balance, that she decides she has to say something, folks," Fitzgerald said.

"Her testimony might be worth something if she reported it when it might have done some good. But I submit to you that she didn't report it because it didn't happen the way she said it happened."

North Georgia Mountaineers See 'Sure Signs' of a Cold Winter

CLEVELAND, Ga. (AP) — It's going to be a cold winter. If you don't believe it, look at the shucks on this year's corn crop.

If that's not enough to prove it to you, take a gander at the hair on a calf's neck or the hair on a squirrel's tail, for that matter.

These are "sure" signs for profession of mountaineer Many mountaineers called the predicting the weather to many weather prognostication in 1960 spell the most severe in recent history.

They have been used for decades to predict the weather and the mountaineers swear by their validity.

Frank Reed, 81, Cleveland, Ga., became famous in the mountain areas of the south.

Reed's wife says he has studied signs of the weather for as long as she can remember.

Here are the fruits of his study:

When a mule rolls in the dirt and shakes it off, the weather will be dry. But if he leaves the dust in his coat, it will rain.

When your cats run and play in the house, it is a sure sign of a storm.

When the moon "news" and passes the evening star of a group of stars, there will be a change in the weather with rain or snow.

In the summer, when the leaves on a tree turn "bottom side up," Reed says, "it means rain."

Thick shucks on corn always mean a rough, cold winter.

When the hair on a calf's neck or a squirrel's tail is thick and shaggy in the fall, the winter will be a rough one.

A trained meteorologist with the National Weather Service told a congressional committee recently that there are "indications" that the Southern and Eastern United States will experience a slightly colder winter this year.

After all, the hornets are building their nests closer to the ground this year. This, according to Reed, is also a sure sign.

So, it looks like it's going to be a cold one.

Khrushchev's Last Hurrah

Nikita Khrushchev remembers what is self-serving in the series of so-called recollections that have been published in Life and are about to be brought out in a book. The former Soviet strong man claims his withdrawal of missiles from Cuba was a "triumph of Soviet diplomacy." Amazingly, he makes a convincing case for his view.

By his account, the Bay of Pigs was a greater disaster than we realized at the time. It led Khrushchev to expect a second attempt that could have toppled Castro and ended Soviet credibility in this hemisphere. We can believe his story that he sent the missiles to deter such an attempt, and thus won for communism the beachhead on this continent. He doesn't leave much credit to President Kennedy and his regime.

More important, however, is the insight these recollections give of the workings of the man who ruled the vast Soviet empire for 11 years. Even more, they reveal the workings of the system which has produced the present rulers, Leonid I. Brezhnev and Aleksei N. Kosygin, and their fellow members of the Soviet Presidium, or inner government party.

The overall impression is that the ideology gap is so great, it is a miracle that for 25 years since the end of World War II, the nuclear-armed super powers have managed to coexist without plunging the world into the most devastating war of history. The menace is even greater now, because the present Kremlin rulers have again resorted to cold war tactics to achieve their aggressive ends.

Disastrous Fires

With the temperature dropping to the near zero mark, there is a tendency on the part of many householders to employ additional heating units and to push existing heating facilities to their limits in an endeavor to keep homes comfortable.

The wave of disastrous fires, which has resulted in a large loss of life caused by improper use of heaters and loose bulbs and frayed wires on Christmas trees together with overloaded circuits are deadly proof that greater precautions must be taken.

Any type of heating equipment can be dangerous if not properly designed, installed, maintained and operated. It is not the heating units themselves, but lack of proper maintenance and the misuse, most of which stems from ignorance, which causes fires.

Most of these types of fires can be prevented if a few simple rules are followed.

Heaters should not be placed closer than 18 inches to any combustible surfaces, clothing or other flammable material.

Never leave the additional portable heater burning when nobody is home.

Place the heater on a level space and in a location where there is a minimum of danger that it will be knocked over.

Never move the heater when it is lighted.

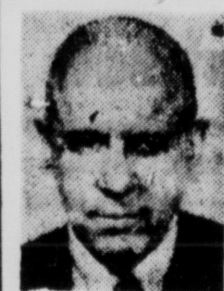

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals ruling that tenants in substandard housing must pay "a reasonable amount of rent" even though housing code violations exist runs counter to the trend in recent rulings. Courts have been holding that tenants are not obligated to pay rent for premises that do not meet housing code requirements. The Court of Appeals sets the precedent.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I'm not sure which button is which, but one of them HAS to be for lighting the Christmas tree!"

The Other Shoe Drops

David Lawrence Says Pope Delivered Inspiring Message on Christmas

WASHINGTON — Pope Paul VI delivered a significant message on Christmas. He did not stress prayers for peace or make appeals for disarmament. He said the barriers between nations could not be demolished until men learned brotherhood.

The Pope started by saying that his address was directed to the "secret recesses" of man's conscience. He asserted:

"You must free yourselves of the centuries-old poison which you carry in your blood, that of selfishness and hate, of conflict as a system, of exclusiveness, of pride and personal and class interest."

Indifference, however, was anticipated by the Pope. He expressed fears that his words would go unheeded by a world he described as "profane and secularized and so allergic to whatever is of a sacred character."

Pope Paul proceeded to give a message to the youth of the world that ought to have the widest reading. He declared that discontented youth says:

"We want to be liberated from those illusions, frustrations, injustices and repressions to which the modern world has subjected us in violation of its promise."

But the pope replied to youth that Christ answers them as follows:

"I am with you, with the power of the spirit, not with the violence of force and passion. Wisdom alone liberates the world."

Pope Paul spoke of "men of modern progress, informed of everything, endowed with everything, yet unknowledgeable and erring about the highest reasons or life and not able to acquire its fullness and happiness."

The address by Pope Paul was delivered to a crowd of about 20,000 from the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. It was televised and broadcast throughout Europe and to some countries abroad. His words will have an impact on members of all religions. This writer, though not a Roman Catholic, has studied the encyclicals and messages of the Popes who have served during the last half-century, and has observed their continuous efforts to improve relations with the people of other sects and faiths. This has been of particular importance in Southeast Asia, where politics and religion are often intertwined.

In the United States, the principal criticism heard about lots of the sermons in various denominations is that they deal with political subjects or discuss public affairs rather than emphasize the moral principles that are essential in achieving human brotherhood. Church attendance has fallen off in numerous instances because of the involvement of preachers in political controversies. Their intentions are good and they have every right to say what they please, but the need today is to bring people together and to teach them ways and means of reconciling differences and reducing the friction that exists in so many communities.

As for the young people of America, some of them have appeared on television and have had excellent opportunities to express themselves, but they tend to get lost in a maze of abstractions. Mostly they seem to have become frustrated in trying to steer their own lives and have, as may be natural sometimes, begun to blame the government for everything.

Unfortunately, the government itself is in a state of confusion. It has never been readjusted to meet the problems of a growing population. As a consequence, many needed reforms have been neglected. The general public stands by and watches debates that it doesn't understand, and the Congress stumbles along without revising its own intricate procedures.

Inspiring addresses like that of Pope Paul VI on Christmas should be repeated verbatim over radio and television for the benefit of American audiences. It is one of those rare speeches dealing primarily with moral principles that can be applied irrespective of beliefs in a particular religion. The Pope himself, it is sad to note, realistically expressed the fear that his message would go unheard by most of the world.

Cambodian Ground Forces Will Do Their Own Fighting

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Take it as gospel when President Nixon says he isn't going to use U.S. ground troops in the Cambodian war. This is only partly due to American public opinion, though that certainly is a factor.

The plain and simple fact is that the United States has at last learned that native people fight better when they're running their own wars and must depend on their own men (with U.S. air, sea and dollar support).

This is a lesson Mao Tse-tung has taught for a long time—to anyone who would listen.

He refused to put Chinese troops in Vietnam (though he did put in labor units and some advisors).

Through Lin Piao, he publicly warned Ho Chi Minh that putting a heavy load of North Vietnamese troops in the south might lose him the war. And this may turn out to be the truth.

Like Ho Chi Minh and Mao, the United States has to learn this lesson the hard way. In three wars in Southeast Asia, it was heavy and Americans had a major hand in running the show, they complained vigorously that Lao troops would run at the rumor of North Vietnamese forces around the next bend. This was all too frequently true.

But when the American forces left, the Lao did not collapse. Slowly, erratically and sometimes frustratingly, they began to claw their way upward as a fighting force. Not all units. But some. They are no longer pushovers.

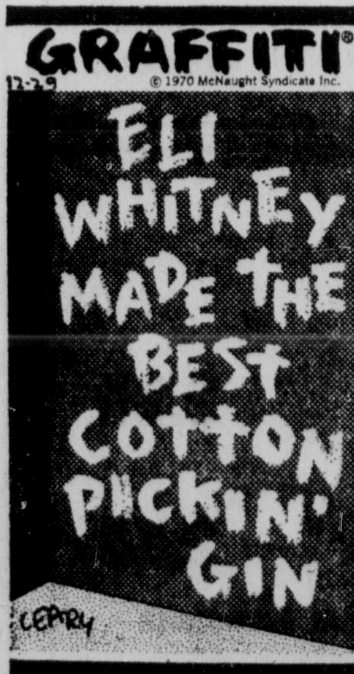

Take Vietnam, where the United States began by Americanizing the war, only to find the Vietnamese (often by necessity) began to leave the fighting to us. But we began to learn that where the South Vietnamese had to fight they could. And at Tet 1968 we (and they) learned that they would, when the chips were down. As American troops leave, we're learning that the South Vietnamese are becoming a fighting force. In part, this is due to a steady upgrading of equipment, officers and training. But a chunk of the new spirit comes from the realization that this is going to be their war.

And lastly, Cambodia. The Cambodians were on their own (as ground forces) from the beginning, except for U.S. and South Vietnamese diversionary attacks on Viet Cong-North Vietnamese bases and some other excursions by the South Vietnamese forces. The Cambodians had no experience in war these many years. The small army was expanded with raw, inexperienced recruits at an incredible rate. These virtually untrained men were thrown green into battle.

And they have done incredibly well against the hardened veterans of the North Vietnamese and VC have thrown against them. They're still on their feet long after military analysts have counted them down and out.

The thing the United States has learned in this war is that men will fight for their homes when it's them facing the invader. They may not fight expertly, but when the crunch comes they will fight bravely.

Jack Anderson Says

Army Is in Trouble, Its Esprit de Corps Is Dying

WASHINGTON — The Army is in trouble. From the gold braid that adorns General Westmoreland's cap to the mud that clings to the footslogger's boots. The system is floundering. The brass know it. The GIs know it. What they all know, however, is the Army is reluctant to admit. Official spokesmen give only partial answers or no answers at all to inquiries. To find out what's wrong with the Army, we have talked to GIs and generals alike from the Potomac to the Rhine, from Seoul to Saigon. Here are the stark facts:

—GIs are deserting in droves. In 1970, 52 out of every 1,000 soldiers risked court-martial to escape from the Army. This three times the desertion rate of just five years ago.

—Discipline is lax, approaching outright insurrection in some units. Lawful orders given under combat conditions are often ignored. Soldiers publicly participate in unauthorized demonstrations. Underground newspapers, some openly seditious, are flourishing. Lawsuits to protect soldiers' rights, unheard of just a few years ago, are becoming commonplace. The first sergeant is no longer God, but just another misguided "lifer."

The Army is literally going to pot. Marijuana is as abundant as the monsoon mud in Vietnam. Hard drugs can be purchased for pocket change in Saigon. Army hospitals have become havens of drug abuse.

—Racial tension is simmering on many Army posts. Blacks and whites work together by day, segregate and fight by night. Many militants frankly intend to use their Army training to wage guerrilla warfare against the U.S.

Promotions vs. Patriotism — Too many officers put promotions ahead of patriotism. A combat command, for example, has become an unwritten requirement for field grade promotions, especially for Colonels seeking their first star. Generals also move up the ladder faster if they have combat records. For the sake of their careers, combat commands in Vietnam have been rotated every six to eight months. Consequently, the troops are constantly being led by green officers. Human life literally has become a means to an end for ambitious officers. The dirt soldiers die, their parents get flag-draped coffins, and the generals receive the kudos.

—Generals also feel they need medals to add to their luster. These are handed out to just about every general who takes a helicopter ride over a battlefield. Almost half of the generals back from Vietnam last year, most of them swivel-chair commanders, came home decorated for bravery in combat. Colonels in charge of battalions get decorated so automatically that their medals have become known as the "battalion commanders' packets." Among the enlisted men who do most of the fighting and dying, in contrast, only one in ten was decorated for bravery.

It is also drilled into officers that the way to get ahead is to conform and never to criticize. Efficiency reports, which largely determine promotions, measure conformity rather than ability. Able officers who raise criticisms get low ratings. The inevitable result is that the Army has come under the sway of mediocre officers.

—In recruiting for the ranks, the Army promises soft jobs for those who enlist. Those who are shanghaied — the draftees, the poor, the black, the dull, the walking wounded — are thrown into the foxholes. The best men invariably get the choice, rear-echelon assignments. Thus the cream become the bureaucrats. The dregs become the dirt soldiers. In other words, the purpose of the Army is to fight, yet its policy is keep the best men out of combat.

Smoking Aloft — A federal study of cigarette pollution in airliners will conclude, say insiders, that the tobacco smoke is no health hazard to non-smoking passengers. Public Health Service researchers, working out of the Cincinnati office, have logged hundreds of hours aloft with sensitive equipment designed to measure the level of air contamination in airliner cabins. They attribute passenger complaints about eye irritations and nose-throat dryness to the low humidity and high ozone content. Under federal regulations, the cabin air in airliners must be completely replaced every three minutes. The study which will be released in late January or early February, is expected to cite the rapid air turnover as one reason that smoking passengers cause no health problem for non-smoking passengers. Indeed, the 12-question passenger survey forms (more than 4,000 have already been collected) indicate that few non-smokers really want to ban smoking aboard planes.

Fiscal Outlook — President Nixon has told congressional leaders privately that his State of the Union message will contain "some interesting approaches to the fiscal problem." Without going into specifics, he has made it clear that he will advocate ways to stimulate the economy. As evidence of his optimism, he is basing his budget plans upon a full-employment economy. The multi-billion dollar question: how to create a boom without causing inflation? The President is waiting for more answers before he adopts specific proposals. For instance, he hasn't made up his mind, say insiders, whether to request a tax increase.

Bald Senators — Between puffs on a Churchillian cigar, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., expressed Churchillian contempt the other day for fresh air and physical fitness. He ticked off the names of his colleagues who exercise to keep fit: Senators Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, William Proxmire, D-Wis., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Jacob Javits, R-N.Y. Talking to friends in the Senate cloakroom, Magnuson snorted: "Bennett walks to his office; Proxmire jogs. Thurmond stands on his head. Cranston and Javits are also physical fitness buffs." Then with an air of one imparting an unconsidered truth, Magnuson concluded, "Every one of them is bald."

Poles Sans Hope, Fault Red Rule

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The riots in Poland, repressed in the usual Communist manner with a show of tanks and the flowing of blood, sprang from a deep malaise which I could almost feel and smell the moment I crossed the border into the country last summer.

The uniformed presence, military and police, hits you strongly, checking, patrolling station platforms, roaming the highways with suspicious looks at the passing cars.

Perhaps more even than the Russians, the Polish people are afraid to talk to foreigners, especially Americans. Traditionally a brave, sturdy, patient folk, they walk the streets of their cities without brightness of spirit.

As I reported at the time, this same lifelessness mars the performance of Polish workers. They find endless ways to soldier on the job, and stealing from factories and shops is a common thing. A kind of dead-end feeling hangs like a pall over most Polish enterprise.

The word from the food shops was that a good many items were in short supply. When they do turn up, the Polish housewife is inevitably surprised.

The food problem, of course, touched off the riots in Baltic cities. To the outsider, Polish authorities' increase of food prices looks, in the light of the known previous unhappiness, like the worst kind of folly. If this insensitivity is deemed really necessary, the situation must indeed be bad.

It is not alone economic misery and political oppression, severe as they are, which trouble the Polish people. As I have observed before in comment on Poland, the overriding response is a feeling of being left out, of being tucked away in a stagnant backwater while the currents of progress rush by elsewhere.

For the America which they see soaring on an upward course of science and technology, they exhibit respect, admiration, awe. Middle echelon Communist leaders, no less than the citizens themselves, are truly obsessed by the fact that they seem to fall farther and farther behind with every passing day. The ordinary folk stare transfixed at U.S. technical films and other displays.

Obviously, the Poles have nothing approaching our freedom. U.S. liberals' outworn nonsense about the "liberalization" of Poland and some other Iron Curtain countries should not mislead us. It is simply a small replay of the liberals' old romance with communism. For decades many of them have been captivated by communism's philosophical trappings. They seldom examine critically any doctrine or practice conceived and carried out in the name of "the people."

Except when the screws of repression are turned tight, however, the Poles do not appear to mind the authoritarian aspect of their government. Democracy, as we know it is not a part of their long history.

They fault their "system" for the other reasons cited, for its monumental failure to move aggressively and know that in this decisive area where progress toward a better life is made, communism hasn't got it.

The "establishment liberals" are not the only ones who can't seem to understand that the Poles (and their Red-ruled counterparts in many other lands) have given up on communism as a proper engine of progress.

It is a commonplace to say that the militant young here and abroad have no philosophy and no program. But many, when pressed hard, offer up a kind of mangled Marxism as their prescription for modern society's ills. Evidently, they are impervious to evidence. The Polish riots are a lesson in massive disenchantment with Marxism's disenchantment.

IRS Orders Crackdown On Medical Deductions

By RAY DE CRANE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A nationwide crackdown on medical deductions claimed on income tax returns has been ordered by the Washington office of Internal Revenue Service.

Suspecting that large-scale fraud might be attempted on this year's tax returns, IRS will demand more proof than ever on claimed medical expenses.

Cancelled checks and receipted statements from doctors will no longer be accepted as bonafide proof of payment by taxpayers.

IRS auditors plan to go one step further on the 1970 returns and inquire "How much of this fee was paid by an insurance company or by a union health and welfare program?"

Income tax rules have always been clear on this point: Only those expenses actually paid by the taxpayer — over and above reimbursement from an insurance company or other source — may be claimed.

Individually helping the tax cheaters are unions and insurance companies who give the member the option of having payment go directly to him or to the doctor.

The person intent on cheating on his taxes elects to have the payment go directly to him. He then deposits the insurance payment in his checking account and immediately issues his own personal check in the identical amount for his doctor.

When his canceled check is returned by the bank he retains it as "proof" of his medical payment. If he wants to make his case ironclad, he presents both the statement from his doctor and his canceled check to his income tax counselor as support of his medical deduction.

The medical assistant to a doctor alerted one district director of Internal Revenue to the situation when she recounted her experience of this month.

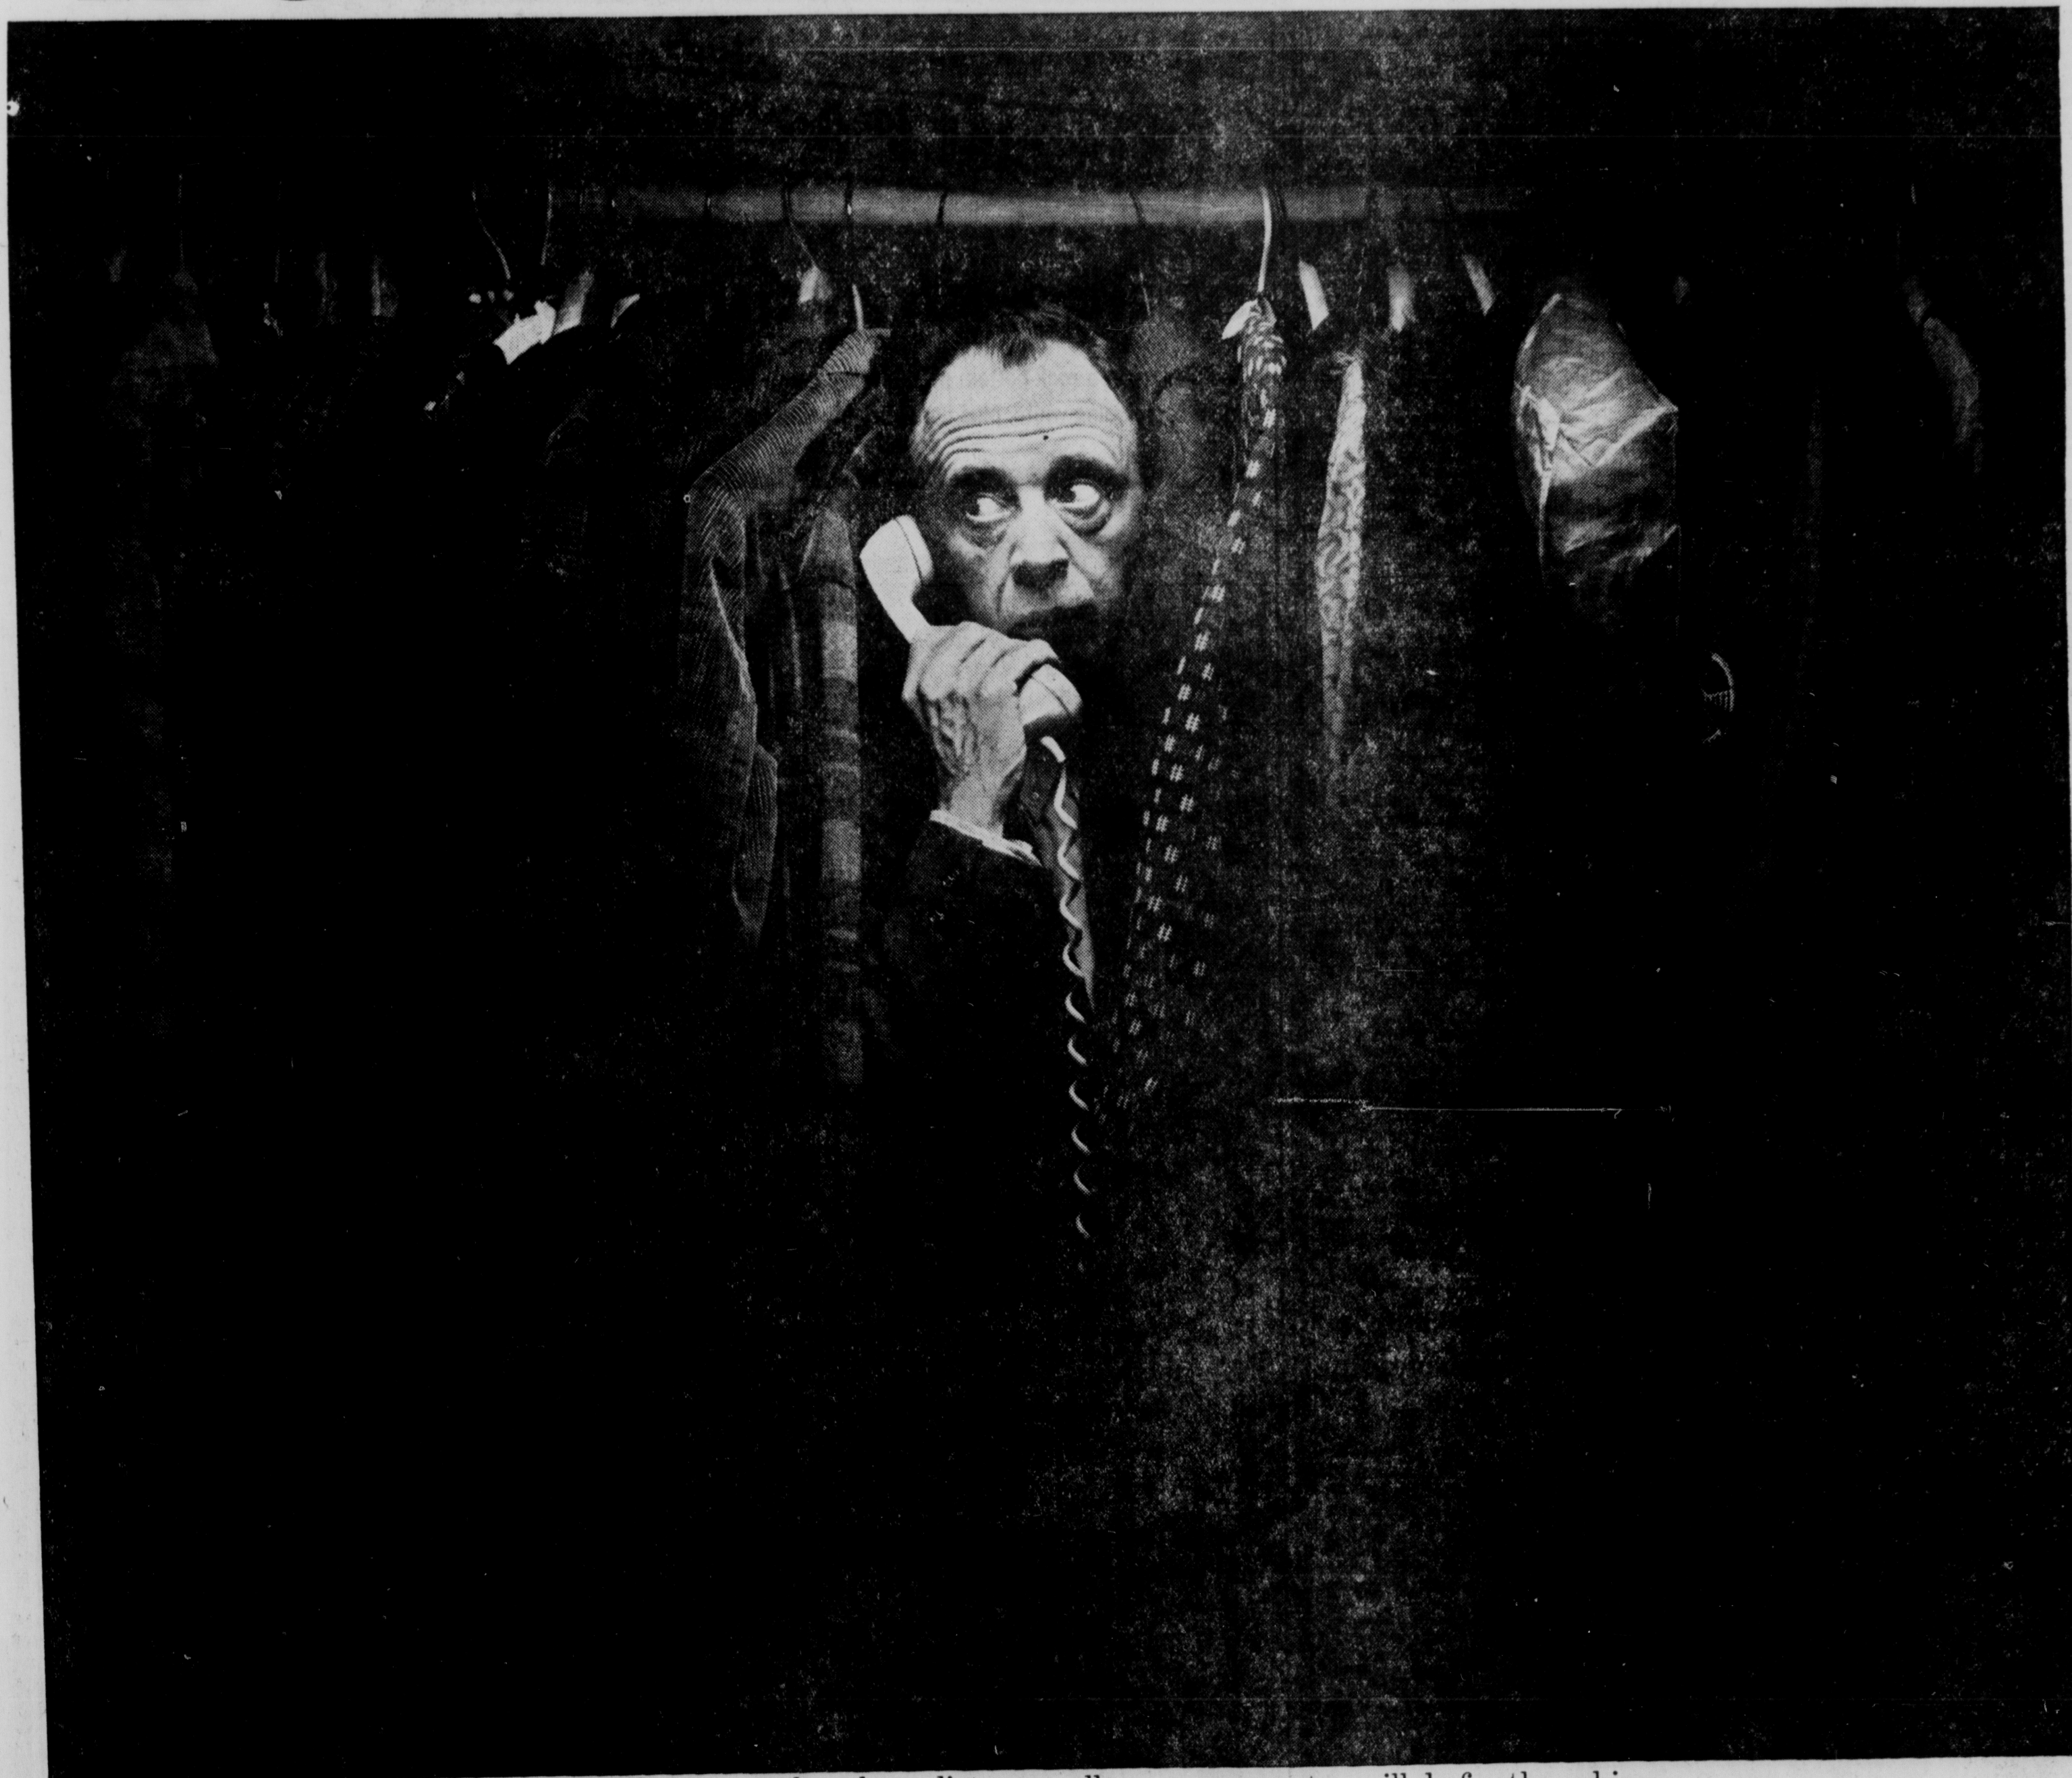

"Since Dec. 1, I have been asked to prepare at least 500 statements for patients who have asked the total of their payments to my doctor-employer this year. They have told me they want the statement for use in preparing their income tax returns."

"I happen to know that in almost every case they have been 100 per cent reimbursed by their union for their medical fees," she reported. "Not one cent of their own money is involved."

Now that they are alerted, IRS auditors are prepared to lower the boom.

Very few people know how to make a long distance call from a friend's house.

When you have to make a long distance call from a friend's house, there are lots of hard ways to do it. Like slipping into a handy closet.

But there's also an easy way. All you do is say to your friend, "I'm going to ask the operator to charge it to my home phone." Which is something any operator will do for the asking. (But remember, this is an operator-handled call. So there will be an additional charge.)

It's all part of knowing how to use the telephone. And how to keep friends and influence people.

New York City Negotiations In Full Swing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Round-the-clock negotiations begin today between New York City officials and representatives of the three major uniformed service unions.

Talks with the Uniformed Firefighters Association and Patrolmen's Benevolent Association were set for the city's Office of Collective Bargaining headquarters. A separate meeting was scheduled for the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association.

Contracts for all three unions expire New Year's Eve.

Herbert Haber, director of the city's labor relations office, said Monday night the talks will last "beyond the deadlines."

"There isn't any realistic possibility we can conclude contracts with all these labor groups by Jan. 1," Haber said.

Union leaders, however, said they were "confident" concessions would be made by the city to stall threatened "job actions."

An Extension For Snowmobile Registration

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York State's first snowmobile registration period has been extended until Feb. 2.

The extension from the previous Dec. 31 deadline was announced Monday in reaction to a last-minute rush of applications.

James J. O'Brien, director of marine and recreational vehicle licensing, estimated that about 90,000 snowmobiles would be registered by the beginning of January. There are an estimated 140,000 snowmobiles in New York.

Under a new state law, a $5 license is required for each snowmobile operated on roads and highways in the state.

The agency began licensing operations Oct. 1 in hopes of getting snowmobile owners to file early, however about 20 per cent of the applications had to be returned because of incomplete information.

Since the end of November, a day and night shift has been working to process license applications.

Divorce Denial By Spokesman For Margaret

LONDON (UPI) — A spokesman for Princess Margaret today called "certainly not true" a Washington newspaper report she and Lord Snowdon have agreed to separate and divorce.

The denial was issued by Clarence House, which handles all news queries concerning Queen Mother Elizabeth, who lives there, and Princess Margaret.

Margaret, 40, has been spending Christmas at Windsor Castle with her older sister, Queen Elizabeth. She was expected back in London later today.

Lord Snowdon, 40, is in the London Clinic recovering from minor surgery.

The Washington Post attributed its report to "close friends and relatives" of the couple. Margaret and Snowdon married May 6, 1960.

"The decision was reached recently and an announcement is expected soon," the Post said in its "VIP" column. The newspaper quoted informed sources that Snowdon was the one who was insisting on the step.

The Church of England, which Queen Elizabeth heads, does not recognize divorce. Royal court observers said the Snowdons could separate easily enough but that a divorce would be difficult in the light of the queen's position.

Supreme Court Asked to Rule On Benefits for Retirees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals at Cincinnati overturned a National Labor Relations Board decision and ruled labor could not insist, as a matter of law, that management negotiate benefits for retired workers.

The case affects directly only 190 retired employees in Ohio. But labor lawyers say a lower court decision, if allowed to stand, could touch retirement benefits for millions of working men and perhaps lead to disappearance of countless other subjects from labor-management bargaining tables.

Employers have for years been required to negotiate retirement programs for active workers, and many have bargained voluntarily to increase benefits for workers already retired.

Last June 10, however, the U.S. Court of Appeals at Cincinnati overturned a National Labor Relations Board decision and ruled labor could not insist, as a matter of law, that management negotiate benefits for retired workers.

The importance of the case is underlined by the fact friends of the court briefs were filed on management's side by the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and on the NLRB side by the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the Steelworkers and Transit Workers.

The case dates back to 1965 when the federal Medicare law was enacted and Local 1 of the Allied Chemical Workers of America asked Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. to renegotiate medical benefits for its 190 retired employees.

At the time Pittsburgh Plate, under a 1964 agreement, contributed $2 a month to medical insurance premiums of retired workers.

Rather than bargain with the union, however, the company offered to pick up the $3 monthly Medicare costs for any retired workers who would drop out of the company medical insurance plan. Fifteen accepted the offer.

The union complained the company was guilty of unlawful refusal to bargain, and the NLRB agreed. The appeals court, however, reversed the NLRB, and held that retired workers are not employees as defined by the National Labor Relations Act.

The court is not expected to decide whether to review the case for several weeks.

Bus Damage

MALONE, N. Y. (UPI) — A State Supreme Court justice today ordered a major Watertown architectural firm to pay an estimated $250,000 in damages to the Massena Central School District for construction defects in three elementary schools.

The decision by Justice Robert G. Main came after nearly nine years of litigation between the school district and the firm of Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw and Foley.

30-Day Sentence On Guilty Plea

ELLENVILLE — Accused of a recent burglary at a residence in this community, Henry Dehling, 40, of the Echo Hotel, appeared Monday night for arraignment before Wawarsing Town Justice Maurice Rosenstock.

Dehling had been taken into custody by Trooper J. P. Dunning on a third degree burglary charge. He was permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of criminal trespass and Judge Rosenstock sentenced him to 30 days in the Ulster County jail.

Dehling was accused of entering the home of Walter Szczeraka.

Truth in Gas Measure New FTC Requirement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission is reported ready with a sort of "truth in gas" measure—the posting of octane ratings on service station gas pumps.

Such a ruling, first suggested to the FTC in 1968 by Sen. William Proxmire, would be issued and enforced over protests from the oil industry.

Youth Hurt In Fatal Crash Leaves Hospital

KINGSTON

Gregory Roshetski, 16, of RD 1, Kingston, who sustained a fractured left leg in a two-car head-on crash Dec. 20 in Port Jervis, has been released from Kingston Hospital, authorities have reported.

Roshetski's mother, Helen Roshetski and his 18-year-old sister, Victoria, were both killed in the crash.

The youth had been hospitalized for several days and was reported in satisfactory condition several hours after the fatal crash.

Woman Nabbed On Drug Charge

CATSKILL

A Town of Saugerties woman was arrested Monday by Leeds State Police in connection with an investigation involving drugs.

Troopers A. G. Parker took Kathleen A. Like, 25, of R.D. 1, West Saugerties in custody on a felony charge of criminal possession of dangerous drugs third degree.

Arraigned before Cairo Town Justice Nicholas Beer, the woman pleaded innocent. She was released without bail, troopers said, and hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, Jan. 5, 1971.

According to investigators, Parker had been investigating the defendant for some time, and when arrested yesterday she reportedly had more than an ounce of marijuana in her possession. The defendant was questioned by BCI investigators and the investigation is continuing.

Industry contends the octane rating is only one important component of motor fuel. However, according to Capitol Hill sources, the FTC requirement is intended as a first step to help drivers figure the best kind of gas for their car.

Basically, the octane rating is the measure of the gasoline for burning smoothly without knocking. Knocking wastes power and fuel, causes noise, may result in extra doses of exhaust pollution, and engine damage.

Different engines have different octane requirements.

"Consumers may be paying too much for gasoline, buying too low an octane gasoline, or contributing unnecessarily to our already critical pollution problem," Proxmire told a 1969 FTC hearing.

I realize there are other important qualities to gasoline," the Wisconsin Democrat said, "but it is the single most important criterion in the quality and price of gasoline."

A number of consumer groups joined Proxmire in asking for the requirement.

Oil company representatives at the same hearing generally opposed the requirement, saying an octane rating gives no inkling as to other characteristics of gas—quick starting, good pickup, mileage, anti-icing. Also, they say, the rating does not take into account the brand, model and age of a car.

Knocking in an engine takes place when some of the gas fails to burn smoothly, igniting in a series of small, premature explosions. Gasoline with a high octane rating is less likely to burn or ignite prematurely.

Stadium Rink Now Open for Ice Skaters

KINGSTON

Supervised ice skating at the Dietz Stadium rink will now be available to all Kingston residents on a regular basis, according to Andrew J. Murphy III, Superintendent of Recreation.

The rink opened today at 1 p.m. for the first time this season. Supervised skating will be available from 1-5 and 6-9 p.m., through Sunday. Beginning Monday, the rink will be open from 3-5 and 6-9 p.m., seven days a week, according to Murphy.

The Recreation Superintendent added that the rinks at Warren and Block Parks should be opened by New Years Day.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)
DEAR MRS. POST: I have just read "Emily Post's Etiquette," Chapter 64, "For Those Who Smoke." Since people have learned of the dangers from smoking, I feel that it needs revising, for over 50 per cent of the people now do not smoke.
If you smoke, you cannot realize what many non-smokers suffer unless you have quit for a time. If you do not smoke, you already know the dreadful stale smoke odor that prevails in your nostrils, clothing and home when smoking guests leave.
John Banzhaf III has been joined by Ralph Nader in trying to stop smoking on airlines where babies and children are obliged to inhale secondhand smoke, although they also paid for a pleasant trip. Smokers who go to church or mass do not smoke for at least one hour. Since the average jet time between stops is probably only two hours, smokers should defer their smoking until they can deplane and not annoy non-smokers and pollute children's breathing.
I hope you will give the following suggestions favorable consideration: IF YOU CAN'T QUIT SMOKING, WILL YOU, AT LEAST, TRY TO BE A CONSIDERATE SMOKER — by not smoking in the presence of children, especially, babies; by not smoking in the presence of non-smokers, or asking if they mind if you smoke (most do, but are too timid to say so); by never smoking, or asking a host or business man if you may smoke when ash trays are not prominently visible in the home or office; by never leaving a cigarette smoldering behind you to annoy others; by not smoking in a non-smoker's car; by never throwing a cigarette out of your car window to litter or cause fires instead of putting it out in the ash tray. Every year millions of dollars of our wonderful forests and other valuable property are destroyed by careless smokers.
Our Republic was founded with majority rule. Since over 50 per cent of the people are now non-smokers, it is fair that smokers consider these suggestions.
R. J. JACKSON
It is undeniably true that smoking and smokers are far more annoying to non-smokers than vice versa. Therefore, the burden of maintaining pleasant relationships rests on the smoker, and he must go more than halfway to avoid offending. Mr. Jackson's "rules" are sensible and worthwhile and provide valuable suggestions for considerate smokers.
DEAR MRS. POST: A friend of ours is opening a new branch office of his insurance company in our town. I would like to let him know we wish him the best of luck. Is a note or card sufficient, or is a gift in order?
PAT
Dear Pat: A small gift, or "office warming" present, would be very nice, accompanied by a card. An ash tray, a pen holder, bookends or a picture for his office are all appropriate, and a plant is always welcome.
What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week I will send a free copy of "Emily Post's Etiquette." The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

It's National Resolution-Making Time

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Less than a week remains to join the great national self-examination that occurs annually—making New Year's resolutions.
In the name of self-improvement, resolutions will be made to stop-smoking, eating too much, drinking alcoholic beverages to excess, talking in strident tones, biting nails, sleeping on after the alarm rings, nagging husbands, yelling at children, boasting about good fortune or complaining about poor luck.
For every human foible you can bet there will be a resolution. Some persons, of course, consider themselves flawless. These beg off at resolution-making time, saying: "I can't think of anything I need to improve."
What's behind this annual self-examination? What's the reason for the resolutions? And what chance, if any, do you have of sticking to your resolution for one day, one week, one month, or one year?
During an interview, Dr. William Wolf answered these and other questions. A psychiatrist, he is secretary and director of the Association for the Advancement of Psychotherapy. He also is emeritus professor of endocrinology at New York University medical school.

"Resolutions," he said, "fill the role of a self-fulfilling prophecy. A resolution is a prediction that something is going to happen. As a result of that prediction, one thing—stopping smoking or losing weight—is more likely to happen. That is a positive value in making New Year's resolutions."
"Why is that?"
"For example, if you tell little Johnnie, 'Don't trip over that rock,' chances are he will be more likely to trip over that rock than if you hadn't warned him."
"You put it in his mind—a picture of him falling over a rock. If you hadn't, probably he would have gone around it instinctively."
With resolutions, the self-fulfilling prophecy works this way: you resolve to give up smoking or fatty foods and you put in your mind a picture of you as a nonsmoker or as a thin person.
"As a result," Wolf said, "there's a chance you have started a self-fulfilling prophecy of your own."
Say your resolution is that you are going to work harder. You have an image of working harder. Chances of doing it are greater than if you hadn't made such a resolve. That's the way it is—whatever your resolution.

Wolf said the reason resolutions usually don't last as long as intended is that the picture or image of the new, improved you eventually has heaped on it another picture, a stronger image of something that hides it.
This happens when a more pressing need than your resolution comes along. Say the day after New Year's you learn your child must have tonsils removed. That takes priority over your resolution.
"The thing at the moment is the obvious, the immediate thing," Wolf said.
As the year goes on, the everyday immediate things get heaped on the resolution image and obscure it—unless you do something to keep reminding yourself of it.
What one can do to make one's resolutions visible, according to Wolf, is make charts to have around the house. In a subliminal way, they can remind you of the resolution.
He suggested printing out a few key words from the resolution on a six-by-10 inch card, using big letters. Next, you put the card at various times at a place where you'll see it when relaxed—say bedroom or bath.
"But don't keep it in one place," Wolf said. "Change its position often so the reminder doesn't get stale."

Yoga Expert Offers Food for Thought

By AP NEWSFEATURES
"The average American eats far too much," says Richard Littleman, one of the nation's leading experts on Yoga.
Mr. Littleman, 44, who has had a nationally televised yoga program for nearly a decade, maintains that a follower of his system can assure himself not only longevity, but "a radiantly healthy body and pliant limbs as well." But, he adds, a good share of success depends on "how carefully the exerciser watches his food intake."
His views are outlined in his new book "YOGA 28-Day Exercise Plan."
"Your organism is a precision instrument designed to function at its peak on small amounts of high-quality food," says the author "eaten sparingly, such foods can nourish you and leave important energies free to help activate those little-used forces with which Yoga is concerned."
According to the book, all foods should be consumed in a form "as close to their natural state as digestion permits." That is the state in which most foods contain life-force. "When foods are boiled, fried, roasted, refined, canned, frozen, preserved, fumigated, aged, pasteurized, enriched, and otherwise subjected to the many modern processes, this life-force is seriously reduced or killed," he says.
Littleman's variety of yoga is the hatha school, which places great emphasis on physical activities, rather than the contemplative aspects of the discipline.
According to the yoga spokesman, diet has a pronounced effect on the way one feels and acts. "After some meals, you are alive and energized; other meals leave you dull, heavy and lethargic in body and mind. The difference between these two states can be attributed to the food you have consumed."

The exercise book terms rich, heavy foods as the culprits which act to devitalize the body and sap life-force.
Overeating is cited as a cause of many physical disorders, particularly if one's intake is heavy on the many inferior foods that form toxins, acids and harmful waste products.
Nutritionists maintain that a physical organism is low in resistance when its defense agents are busy in other areas coping with toxins, congestions and other deposits so that it cannot fight germs.
"That is why the student of yoga must make certain that diet does not inhibit the life-force already existent in the organism or the new life-force gained through exercise," Littleman says.
He has outlined a basic three-point food program:
—Eat only light, agreeable nourishing foods, that leave you feeling energized in body and clear in mind afterward.
—Eat foods, where possible, in their natural state. Foods that grow and milk products are high in life-force, losing this force to the extent they are tampered with by canning and preserving methods. Most fruits and vegetables can be eaten raw or lightly steamed or baked. Dairy products of low fat content only should be consumed.
—Refined sugar products, coffee, liquor and too much high protein foods are considered artificial stimulants. Meat, fish and poultry should be consumed moderately.

A Delicious Way to Say 'Happy New Year' to Guests

A NEW YEAR'S CLOCK PATE, made with canned meat spreads and surrounded by miniature assorted party bread slices, makes a festive centerpiece for a New Year's Party.

When the clock points to midnight and you welcome guests to your New Year's buffet, let something unusual and edible set the stage.

Your centerpiece can be a holiday pate made to look like the face of a clock, surrounded by oval-shaped party bread slices. A molded pate is elegant, easy to make ahead of time, and simple to serve. People like making their own little open-faced sandwiches. The festive party bread slices — rye, pumpernickel and cheese — are just the right size.

To mold the clock pate, use an eight-inch round cake pan. Any one of the recipes below may be followed. Trace around the bottom of the pan on a firm sheet of paper.

Draw in the face of the clock on the paper and cut out the numerals and hands to make a stencil. After unmolding the pate, place the stencil on top and carefully shake paprika over the cut out sections. The mold may be covered with plastic wrap and refrigerated until serving time.

Just before serving, surround the pate with party bread slices. Alternate the rye, pumpernickel and cheese to make the most of the color contrast.

The New Year's clock pate can be made with deviled ham, chicken spread, or liverwurst spread. Choose your favorite or make all three! It's sure to disappear in a hurry.

Holiday Pate

Two four and three fourths ounce cans liverwurst spread
One eight ounce package cream cheese, softened
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Four tablespoons bacon flavored bits

One and one half teaspoons plain gelatin
One fourth cup cold water
One half teaspoon instant beef bouillon

Mix together liverwurst spread and cream cheese. Add Worcestershire sauce and bacon flavored bits. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water along with beef bouillon. Add to liverwurst spread mixture. Pour into oiled eight by one and one half inch round pan. Chill till firm. Unmold. Serve with party rye and pumpernickel slices.

Deviled Ham Pate

One and one half teaspoons unflavored gelatin
One fourth cup cold water
Two four and one half ounce cans deviled ham
One cup sour cream
Three tablespoons chili sauce

Two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.

Softener gelatin in cold water, dissolve over boiling water, then cool slightly. Combine remaining ingredients, blend well with cooled gelatin. Pour into a well oiled eight and one half inch round pan, and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with miniature party bread slices.

Chicken Spread Pate

Two tablespoons unflavored gelatin
One thirteen and three fourths ounce can chicken broth
One three ounce package cream cheese, cut in cubes

Two four and three fourths ounce cans chicken spread
One half teaspoon grated lemon rind
One fourth teaspoon dill weed

Soften gelatin in one half cup of the chicken broth. Heat the remainder of the broth until it boils, and dissolve the gelatin mixture in it. Place the cubes of cream cheese and chicken spread in the blender and blend on high speed until both ingredients are combined. Add the gelatin mixture and blend ingredients together. Add lemon rind and dill weed and mix. Place in an oiled eight by one and one half inch round pan. Chill until firm.

Remove from pan and serve with miniature party bread slices.

Money-Saving Tips for Career Girls

The single career girl has become the glamour girl of the seventies. No longer is she considered the "unlucky" girl who has to earn her own way, but rather, she's the gal with all the opportunities at her fingertips. Yet, getting the knack of surviving in the business world can be a little demoralizing, especially if your salary is $90.00 a week.

How do you play the game and still come out ahead? It does take money to be successfully single — money for clothes, an apartment, vacations, entertainment and all the fun things you like to do. But, there are ways to manage and come out a winner, even on a beginning salary. As a single, self-supporting woman you have one great advantage — people will let you live within your means. Little economical tricks like riding a bike to work, will bring you cheers and praise. Or, a back yard bar-b-que where the food for thought is some variation of hotdog and soft drink will be considered hip and "in." (Just try either of these tricks if you're wealthy — you'd be drummed out of the country club.)

Part of the American career girl image is being able to reconcile a check book, having something in it to reconcile, and being able to pay your way if you have to. There are subtle ways to be a penny-pincher — and the world will never know that you're temporarily a miser at heart. You can create the illusion of being wealthy with very little money.

You can live attractively — no matter how much you make, or how little. A few general money-saving rules might be:

Scrimp on what really isn't any fun, so you can afford what is.

Don't spend a sou on anything you don't absolutely need.

Never pay more when you can always pay less.

Economize on things that would bring you no extra happiness even if you spent twice as much.

There are other, fun ways to come out ahead. Don't bother to subscribe to that magazine — borrow from your office, or your girl friends. Write fan letters to big companies praising their latest ad campaign or product — sometimes they send free samples. You're never too tired when it comes to money, so take extra jobs. If you can type, there's always a pressure-ridden executive who needs extra help on weekends.

As for shopping — more money has been squandered at sales in the name of thrift than has been loaned to underprivileged countries. So be on your guard. There are two legitimate ways to buy clothes on sale. One is to keep your eye on a gown you've adored since its arrival, and if it isn't sold within months ask the salesgirl when it will be marked down. Then act and it's yours. The other legitimate sale purchase is when there's a big gap in your wardrobe. If you've been wearing your raincoat for an evening wrap, spot a coat that's really you. Case all the sales and when the coat is finally in your price range, buy it and wear it in good health.

Every girl needs a morale booster — it may be a new handbag picked up on sale, or a special sweater. A new fragrance is always a nice addition to any wardrobe. It has a way of making everything seem new, different, and more exciting.

One of the best, and most entertaining ways to save on food is to depend on others for your food for thought — especially for lunch, no one can be that boring for an hour. If you keep your cupboard almost bare, you'll be healthier, skinnier and wealthier. Avoid those posh lunches with the girls — save them for that first big raise. With the current emphasis on health and diet, brown-bagging it at least three times a week is an excellent idea.

It's possible to survive in the business world — even on a limited budget. There are a hundred more tricks and gimmicks that can save you both time and money. If may take you a while to get started, but once you're on the go, nothing can stop you from enjoying the best — on your job and in your life.

A New Fragrance Is a Great Morale Booster.

Seasonal Quotes

Rings and jewels are not gifts, but apologies for gifts. The only true gift is a portion of thyself.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON

Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes,

Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated.

The bird of dawn singeth all night long;

And then, they say, no spirit dares stir abroad;

The nights are wholesome; then no planets strike,

No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,

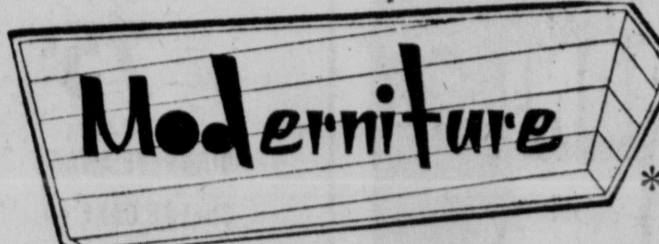

So hallowed and so gracious is the time.

SHAKESPEARE, Hamlet.

Pattern for Progress

Housing Still the Aim

NEW PALTZ

Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, the citizens' regional planning and development corporation, will continue to move toward improving housing opportunities for middle and low income families during the new year, under a program it is pursuing with State Urban Development Corporation and other state agencies.

In a year-end statement, C. David Locks, president of Pattern, noted that the anticipated new housing units "will not by any means close the huge housing gap in the region's seven counties, but it will make a significant contribution."

Over the past year, Pattern and UDC, through the Mid-Hudson Regional Development Program, initiated agreements in four Mid-Hudson counties—Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan and Ulster—to construct a total of 650 units of UDC sponsored housing at a total cost of $18 million.

The communities include Beacon, 200 units; Kingston, 150; South Fallsburg, 100; units Middletown, 100 units; and Livingston Manor, 10 units.

Another 375 units, worth $9 million, already are under construction in Newburgh—initiated by UDC with Pattern's son Regional Development Program started in October 1969, assistance before the Mid-Hudson. The first apartments are expected to be occupied this spring, according to Locks.

In addition, he said UDC is developing plans with Newburgh officials for a $1.5 million office building in the downtown area, plus another $1 million project aimed at centralizing branch offices of Orange County government and the Newburgh Board of Education in the city.

Locks said that hundreds of additional housing units are under study and negotiation in various communities throughout the region, along with possible industrial and commercial projects, plus new public facilities.

The UDC projects are being carried out against the backdrop of a long range regional plan—the Mid-Hudson Regional Development Guide, which is being worked out by Pattern and Regional Plan Association in consultation with various state and county agencies, and the public.

According to Locks, the plan, which is the second major part of the Pattern-UDC program, recommends policies for clustering new population growth and development in and around the region's major urban centers, and creating possibly three new ones over the next 30 years. Housing and new regional facilities, such as hospitals, colleges and government buildings, play key role in this strategy, Locks explained. "With housing being assigned the top priority because of the obvious and pressing need."

Between 1960 and 1970, Locks said, "housing construction trailed so far behind demand that an unmet need now exists for at least 26,000 new and rehabilitated housing units in the region."

Much of this, he indicated, is attributed to high construction costs and tight credit money—the fact that only 25 per cent of the region's households can afford conventionally-financed housing.

Many families, he said, have been forced to crowd into sub-standard dwellings, or turn to mobile homes. "Under current market conditions," Locks added, "the need is expected to increase severely into the 1970's when growing population and continued housing obsolescence will generate a need for 13,000 new and rehabilitated units yearly."

The lack of housing, particularly for low and moderate income families, is also slowing the job rate growth.

"The Mid-Hudson stands to gain considerable industrial growth over the next 15 years," Locks explained, "which will produce another 23,000 manufacturing jobs. Office employment is expected to increase even more—some 33,000 jobs. But much will depend on attracting and keeping the necessary labor force. In turn, this will depend largely on offering workers and their families adequate housing opportunities."

GEM, Mineral Group Elects

KINGSTON Alwin A. Fogg was elected president of the Mid-Hudson Valley Gem and Mineral Society at a Christmas party held recently and attended by 92 members.

Ben Anderson was elected executive vice president, Gordon Kenney was named first vice president and in charge of public relations. Other officers include: William Wade, second vice president and program chairman; Ernest Smith, third vice president and field trip chairman; Harry Guido, treasurer; Edward Case, recording secretary; Robert Baker, corresponding secretary. Elected to serve on the board of directors were Luana Guido, David Pfaff, Richard Vineski, Frank Petrillo, Robert Travis and Sybil Millendorf.

During the year members visited rock shops, held their first gem and mineral show at the John Jay High School, attended other mineral shows, visited the State Museum at Albany, took part in five rock swaps, the main swap of the year at John Boyd Thatcher State Park near Albany. Also, sponsored eight society-conducted field trips and 10 smaller group exploration to caves, quarries, and road cuts within 200 miles of their base at Fishkill and presented several lectures to schools and civic organizations on the hobby of rock, mineral and fossil collecting. Harry Guido and Michael Sachter assisted in the exchanging of gifts of mineral specimens and related items of rock collecting among the members at the party. Official club photographer Harry Guido took pictures throughout the evening. A busy season is planned for 1971 with field trips and instruction on testing and identification of specimens.

Former Soviet Slave Highland Post Speaker

HIGHLAND Slave 1-E 241, American name John Noble will speak of his experiences as a slave in Soviet Russia.

Highland American Legion Post 193 will host on behalf of the Ulster County American Legion an Americanism Program featuring Detroit born John Noble as its feature speaker.

This program will be held at the Highland Junior and Senior High School, Pancake Hollow Road, Highland, Jan. 13 and will start at 8 p.m. It is being held as a public service by the Ulster County American Legion and will be free to the public.

Working as a slave in temperatures of 60 degrees below zero above the Arctic Circle, Noble will tell his story like it was and as it is. This is the inside story of the lengthening shadow of the Communist threat, from a man who speaks from personal knowledge and experience, a Legion spokesman said.

In 1945 Noble was falsely arrested by the Soviets and later deported to the dreaded Soviet Arctic slave camps. Surviving nearly 10 years of brutal Satanic Soviet slavery, he is one of few American citizens ever to see the true and undisguised face of Communism in Russia. Most of the world has been persuaded to believe that Communism has changed during recent years. Noble will contradict this propaganda and demand a recognition

Controversy in New Paltz—Village Attorney Gets Case

NEW PALTZ building is undergoing renovation. A controversy surrounding the resolution of a variance request currently pending before the Village of New Paltz Zoning Board of Appeals has prompted action by the Village Board here.

At its regular meeting Monday night New Paltz Village Board voted to authorize the village attorney to "give guidance to the ZBA so that they can reach a legal, faultless decision" in its deliberations over a variance request made by the New Paltz branch of the State of New York National Bank.

The bank is asking the ZBA to approve a temporary mobile banking facility, which is being used while the bank's regular practical and necessary, while the prevailing sentiment on the ZBA seems to be that it is unfledged ZBA, which was formed in September, was not adequately prepared to deal with the powerful bank.

After tabling the issue at a meeting on Oct. 16, the ZBA ruled against the drive-in window at a subsequent meeting on Dec. 1. However, attorney's for the bank were able to have this ruling nullified when they discovered a "minor procedural error" in the ZBA's action.

Another hearing will be held soon according to village officials and the Village Board's action, Monday night, appears to be an attempt to make sure that there are no more "procedural delays."

Legislature to Set Date For Organizational Meeting

KINGSTON The organizational meeting of the Ulster County Legislature at which the chairmen, majority and minority leaders are elected for the coming year, has been tentatively set for Thursday, Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the County Office Building.

The date will be made firm when the Legislature meets this week at 4 p.m. Thursday to close out the year's business.

Among the resolutions scheduled for the Thursday meeting are three submitted by Legislator Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8) in behalf of the Treasurer's Committee. One calls for the signing of tax warrants, the second levies taxes in the Town of Ulster County and the third calls for ratification of the tax rolls.

Additional resolutions call for the transfer of funds including one from the Health Department requesting that $8,000 for equipment be transferred from one account to another. Also, the Publicity Committee is seeking $1,000 to be transferred from the contingency fund.

Lawrence Craft (R-Dist. 10), chairman of the Bridge and Highway Committee seeks the transfer of $20,000 from the County Road Maintenance Fund to the County Snow Fund; $10,000 from the County Road Maintenance Fund to the State Snow Fund and $2,000 and $1,000 transferred within the general fund for parking grounds.

The board will also act on a request of Robert T. Brown dean of administration of Ulster County Community College asking for the creation of a new Civil Service Post at the college.

The resolution has been submitted by Legislator Brian White, (R-Dist. 9) chairman of the Community College Committee. It asks specifically that the Legislature create the job title of "offset printing machine operator" in the Ulster County salary schedule on behalf of UCCC, and that it be placed in grade nine of the Ulster County salary schedule.

Cleaning Up the Derailement Mess

Penn Central workers are putting the finishing touches on the job of clearing the right-of-way for freight traffic on the railroad's West Shore line following Sunday morning's 50-car derailment. The scene is at the Route 9W overpass between Malden and West Camp. No one was reported injured when about half of the 50-car freight derailed and stacked up on the rails crossways. The Kingston office of the Supervisor of Tracks would not comment on the wreck or even admit that the track was clear. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Gamecocks, Hilltoppers in Holiday Finale

NEW YORK (UPI)—South Carolina and Western Kentucky each had something to prove in Monday night's semi-finals of the Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament—and they did it convincingly.

South Carolina, ranked No. 2 in the nation, was forced to prove it could win without star forward Tom Owens, who sat out the game with the flu, and fifth-ranked Western Kentucky had to prove that its victory over mighty Jacksonville last week was no fluke.

Both teams succeeded. South Carolina boosted its record to 7-0 by defeating a scrappy Providence team, 102-86, and Western Kentucky, which had played so poorly in an opening-round victory over St. Peter's (N.J.), 85-67.

The two powers will meet for the championship Wednesday night in the nightcap of a tripleheader. Cornell and Holy Cross, winners of Monday afternoon consolation games, will play for fifth place and Providence will meet St. John's for third place in Wednesday night preliminary game.

SC Poised
South Carolina showed tremendous poise and skill in defeating Providence. The Gamecocks were hit with a full-court press for nearly the entire game, but never seemed bothered by it as guard John Roche and forward Kevin Joyce broke the press consistently with precision passes that resulted in several easy baskets.

Roche was a standout. Although double-teamed for much of the game, he collected 35 points and had six assists in his best performance of the season. Joyce, a sophomore, chipped in with 21 points, but it was the play of 6-10 center Tom Riker which was the dominating factor in the Gamecocks' victory. Riker scored 31 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as he more than made up for the loss of Owens.

"We didn't do anything special. We just tried to play a solid, consistent game," said Roche. "Not having Tom Owens was a big loss. He's the leading rebounder in the conference. He's the guy who gets the ball for us. We knew we'd have to take good shots and make them count. They gave us a lot of layups. I figured they'd press, but a press really doesn't bother me. We're well coached and we know what to do with it."

Many Turnovers
Western Kentucky, which threw the ball away 37 times against St. Peter's, played a much more controlled game against St. John's and showed a lot of poise, also, by holding off a late rally by the Redmen. The Hilltoppers had a 13-point lead reduced to four with 6:18 to go but got three baskets each from Jim McDaniels and Jerry Dunn within the next three minutes to pull away again.

McDaniels was the big gun for the Hilltoppers with 36 points and 19 rebounds and, oddly enough, the seven-foot center was the one player on the court with the most to prove. Big Jim, who scored 46 points against 7-2 Artis Gilmore when the Hilltoppers upset Jacksonville, managed just 27 points and 18 rebounds against a small St. Peter's team in what his coach John Oldham called "the worst game" he had ever seen McDaniels play.

"I wasn't pleased with the way I played the other night," said McDaniels. "The players knew when I was open tonight."

If I score, we win. It's that simple. We came here to get South Carolina and that's what we want to do. I like pressure. I play better under pressure."

"We still didn't play as well as we're capable of playing, but we played a little more intelligently than we did the other night," said Oldham. "We didn't throw the ball away 37 times. McDaniels went to work like he can."

Oldham said the Hilltoppers' success against South Carolina will depend on how well his club can "finesse" the Gamecocks.

"If we get physical there's no way we can win. We'll have to try to finesse them. They're just a great ball club—as physical a club as there is in the country. We will have to do a good job under the boards to beat them."

Bucks Bomb Royals' Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New Alcindor-led Milwaukee Bucks, sporting the best record in pro basketball, reached another plateau Monday night.

The Bucks, paced by Alcindor's 17 first period points, 137-114 and increased their National Basketball Association Midwest Division lead to six games over the idle Detroit Pistons. It was Milwaukee's highest point total of the season.

Alcindor, the NBA's leading scorer, finished with 29 points as the Bucks captured their 28th victory in 34 starts.

In the only other NBA game, San Francisco trimmed Atlanta 115-104.

In American Basketball Association play, Pittsburgh nipped the Floridians 109-107 and Memphis tripped Kentucky 110-106.

The Bucks previous high was 134 points in a victory over Cleveland earlier in the season. Greg Smith added 26 while Bob Dandridge had 23 and Oscar Robertson 22 for the winners. Flynn Robinson had 22 points for Cincinnati.

Nate Thurmond poured in 30 points, 13 in the first half as San Francisco rolled to a 65-44 halftime edge at Atlanta and easily defeated the Hawks. Pete Maravich led Atlanta with 29 points.

John Brisker hit on a layup with eight seconds remaining, snapping a 107-107 tie and sending Pittsburgh to its triumph. It extended the Floridians string of losses to five. Brisker led the Condors with 27 points while ABA scoring leader Mack Calvin topped the losers with 26.

Jimmy Jones hit a basket midway in the third period, putting Memphis ahead 69-68 and SAN FRAN. (115) ATLANTA (104)

Albany State Makes Finals

ALBANY
Albany State cagers, defending champions of the Capitol District Tournament, gained the finals of this year's event with a 72-64 victory over RPI. The State squad will face Union, 83-73 winners over Siena, in the finals tonight. Both games of the 10th annual tourney were played last night.

The State quintet was paced by Jack Jordan and Jim Quatrochi, both had 18 markers. Gary Dubansky led RPI with 18 points.

Former High School stars, Andy Murphy and Werner Koln didn't figure in the heavy action. Murphy, who plays at Siena, performed during the last minute. Koln had one point for Albany State.

age of 19.8 per game.

The leading scorer remains Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor, like Chamberlain a towering seven-footer. Big Lew is averaging 32.5 points per game. Boston's John Havlicek is second in the scoring race, averaging 29.6.

Johnny Green of Cincinnati has the best field goal percentage with .593. Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee is tops in free

Reed Heads NBA Squad

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, captain and center of the New York Knicks and winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award last season, was the only unanimous choice to represent the East squad in the NBA's 21st annual All-Star game Jan. 12 in San Diego, Calif.

Reed was named by all 17 sportswriters and sportscasters from the league cities who participated in the balloting.

Joining Reed were forwards John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers and guards Walt Frazier of the Knicks and Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets.

Gus Johnson and Wes Unseld of the Bullets were also chosen along with Jo Jo White of the Celtics.

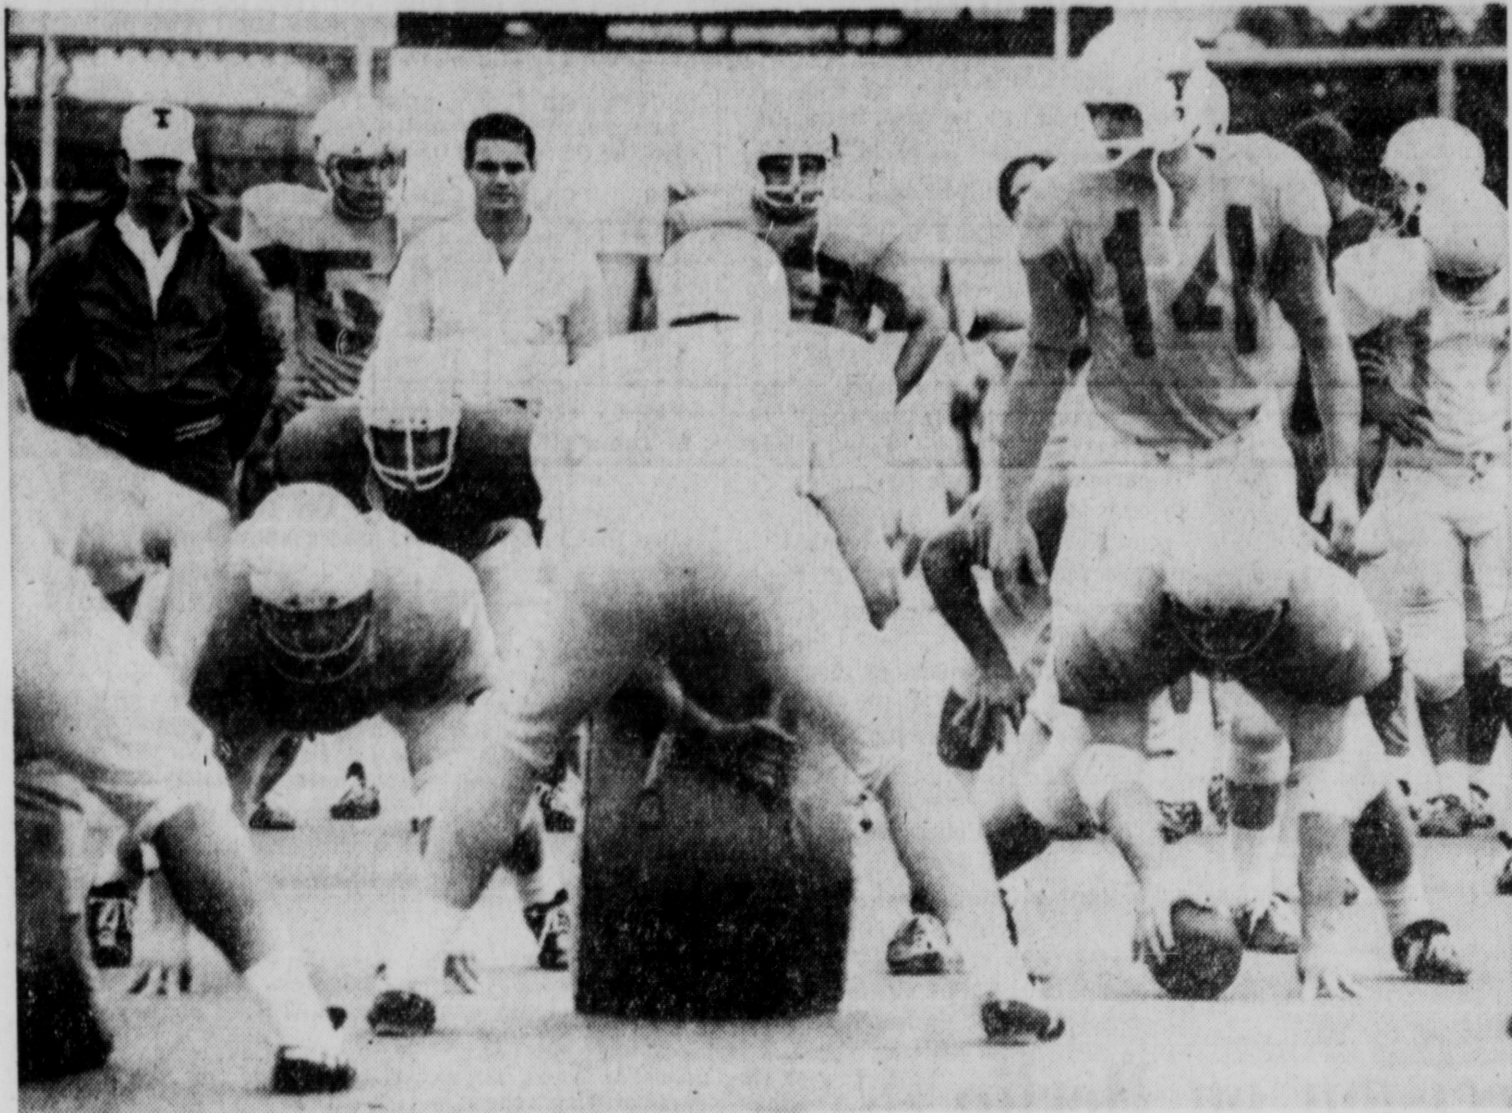

Six more players will be selected for the team by the Eastern Conference coaches. At least one player from each of the eight teams in the conference must be chosen to the squad, according to league rules.

Pro Football Czars Look to Extend Blackout Range

Ara Lauds Texas Squad

DALLAS (UPI)—When perfection is staring someone in the face, that someone usually takes a good look.

Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian has been the one doing the looking lately, and is currently expounding on perfection as presented by the Wishbone-T offense he will face Friday in the 35th Cotton Bowl game.

First of all he finds no reason to be coy when asked his impressions of the University of Texas offense—the nation's No. 1 point producer in 1970.

"They have won 30 games in a row," he says. "That speaks for itself."

But Parseghian is a bit of a philosopher in his middle age, and philosophers don't stop short at expressing themselves in a dozen words.

Parseghian looks upon the Wishbone-T as created and refined by Darrell Royal and his Texas coaching staff as a sort of ultimate weapon, which with flawless execution is almost impossible to stop. The only way to beat Texas, he figures, is with a high gear offense that can score a lot of points itself.

"You have to face that reality when you play Texas," Parseghian said. "We faced it last year in preparing for them, and we have faced it in preparation for this game."

"Teams have tried a variety of defenses against Texas, but nobody has stopped the wishbone. They have gained an average of more than 300 yards on the ground, they have scored more points than any other team in the country this year. And the chief evidence of its success is they have won 30 games in a row."

And the Wishbone-T Notre Dame will face Friday will not be the same one it faced a year ago.

"Texas has been changing in their blocking patterns that we, as coaches, see. They run a little draw play now and then that they did not do last year, and they have a little off-tackle action."

"When we change our offense we use different formations and put in a whole lot of new plays. When Texas changes its offense they just change a blocking pattern."

"You can see what they are doing on the films. But whether you can do anything about it is something else. Nobody has until now."

The type of game Notre Dame and Texas played last Jan. 1, with Texas exerting its ball control offense in the final half, reminds Parseghian of the games he saw when his Northwestern teams played Ohio State. The time flew by,

"Last year we had the ball once and then Texas moved the ball for a long time, and I looked up at the clock. My goodness, the quarter was almost gone."

"If we encounter a running team like Texas, and they control the ball, it gives us fewer opportunities to make good. (Quarterback) Joe Theismann is not going to do us any good sitting on the bench with me."

"And in the last quarter, when they made that long drive that won the game, I looked at the clock again and thought, 'the game is going to be over already.'"

"This is the trademark of the Texas team, and its game with Arkansas (which Texas won 42-7) is a classic example."

"Texas scored the first time it had the ball, and took up a lot of time; Arkansas gets it, is stopped, has to punt, and here comes Texas again."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The National Football League may tighten up its 75-mile television blackout policy in an attempt to assure sellout crowds at future playoff games. Jim Kensil, pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle's No. 1 assistant, said Monday night that a "re-evaluation" may be necessary "to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather."

NFL officials were concerned

Hawks Drop Tourney Tilt

NORFOLK, VA. — The weather here may be warmer than in New Paltz State's basketball team is accustomed to for this time of year, but the Hawks didn't get any hotter on the court as Randolph Macon College defeated them, 83-62, last night in the first round of the Philbent New Year's Tournament.

Philbent beat West Virginia Tech in the nightcap, 87-69, setting up tonight's final and consolation games.

For New Paltz it was the same story as in its six previous games, all resulting in defeat. The Hawks jumped out in front early, held the lead for most of the first half, then yielded it just prior to intermission.

While New Paltz was hitting a decent 44 per cent from the field, Randolph Macon was a cool 33 per cent during the first twenty minutes and only the accurate tosses of Ed Chasanov kept Macon in the contest. Chasanov tallied 16 of his game high total of 18 points in the opening half.

The Hawks were also doing their fare share of the rebounding against the taller Virginia team. Center Don Valdez cleared the boards 13 times in the initial set.

Then it all changed when the teams returned from the locker room. Randolph Macon locked to find the range to the tune of a neat 51 per cent floor average. New Paltz meanwhile couldn't see the hoop and knocked home only 31 per cent.

Rebounding was only a rumor too. Valdez reversed his field and took down only three.

They stopped jumping in the second half." Coach Si Pesaveno said later.

The loss was even more frustrating for Pesaveno when it is noticed that he finally started to get some scoring from his dormant backcourt. Captain Glen Kirsch had his most productive game with 16 points and Dan Rogers added eight, as did Steve Fuller.

But Bruce Kreutzler, averaging 17.3, sprained an ankle after hitting 13 and missed the rest of the contest. He's questionable for tonight. And Valdez, a 16.5 scorer had just four. Earl Ingram didn't help much either netting only a lone free throw.

Philbent's win in the other game came as a surprise as they were crushed by West Virginia Tech earlier in the season. However, playing before a friendly crowd at the naval base here, the home team came up with a big effort to win. Philbent had been a 20 point conqueror of Cortland State several weeks ago.

Cal Murphy: Making His Mark

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The marathon NBA schedule is just about half over and look who's still on the roster of the San Diego Rockets.

Calvin Murphy, that's who. And he hasn't grown an inch.

At 5-foot-9, Murphy's ability to play with the giants of pro basketball may be the individual sports story of the year. It's an incredible accomplishment.

"I know the public doubted my ability," the littlest man in the NBA said. "But I never had any doubts. Never. I've always had confidence in my game."

Australian Tops Virginia Wade

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Giant-killer Evonne Goolagong of Australia whipped Britain's Virginia Wade today 6-4, 6-1 in the singles final of the Federation Cup Tennis Series.

Margaret Court defeated Britain's Ann Haydon Jones 6-8, 6-3, 6-2 and assured Australia of the cup.

The British, top-seeded in the tournament, finished off the United States Monday as Ann Haydon Jones beat Patti Hogan of Irvine, Calif., 6-3, 7-5, and Virginia Wade took Sharon Walsh of San Raphael, Calif., 7-5, 6-4. The Britons also took the doubles 6-4, 6-3.

Australia advanced by beating France with Margaret Court beating Gail Chanfreau 6-1, 6-1, and Yvonne Goolagong whipping Francoise Durr 6-3, 3-6, 6-0. The Aussies also won their doubles match 6-2, 6-3.

St. Mary's Wins Tournament At Coleman High School

KINGSTON — St. Mary's of Kingston captured its fifth straight title in the John A. Coleman High School Holiday Basketball Tournament Sunday night with a 49-31 triumph over Regina Coeli in the finals.

Paced by Kevin Coughlin, St. Mary's had reached the championship round after pasting St. Christopher's, 49-23, in Saturday night action. Regina Coeli became finalists as a result of a first round 32-26 victory over St. Joseph's.

St. Joseph's took third place after defeating St. Christopher's, 27-20.

Pro basketball pundits doubt Murphy would be able to play in the league where many of his rival guards are a half foot taller—and more. They felt his size would be too much of a handicap on defense.

You just don't stop a Jerry West or an Oscar Robertson when you're 5-9.

"My defense really hasn't been that much of a problem," the San Diego rookie declared.

"I've had teams try to take me under the bucket to try to take advantage of my size. But we've got a defense set up for this."

"And I'm much quicker than a lot of other guards. I can do a lot of things just because of my size."

In the Rockets' first 40 games this season, Murphy averaged nearly 14 points in about half a game of playing time.

With Larry Siegfried hurt, coach Alex Hannum has four guards, including Murphy. The others were Stu Lantz, Bernie Williams and Johnny Egan.

Murphy compares himself with the Rockets' talented center, 6-9 Elvin Hayes.

"Elvin is small for his position by pro standards. But his jumping ability makes him a great pro center. He's proved what he can do offensively and defensively."

"So, size has nothing to do with it. It's a question of ability."

One man who didn't doubt that Murphy would make it is Bill Russell, the former Boston Celtic great.

Said Russell before the season began "Calvin Murphy belongs in the NBA. He will be an outstanding pro player."

Married and the father of a young daughter, the former Niagara University All-American Coughlin was named most valuable player of the two-day event. Trophies to individuals and teams were presented by Coleman Varsity Club moderator Les Lombardi and president Don Hastings.

The St. Mary's player led the list of those chosen to the all-star team. Also picked were: Dan Mahoney and Rich Terpening, St. Mary's; Jim Merriken, Tim Moul and Joe Skelley, St. Christopher's; Paul Terwilliger, Dwight Terlinger and Cliff Lyons, St. Joseph's, and Tim Keating, Kevin O'Connor and Marty Casper, Regina Coeli.

says his enthusiasm for basketball has somewhat ebbed since he became a pro.

"Oh, I still love the sport. It's just that I used to feel I couldn't get enough of basketball and now I get tired every now and then because we play so many games."

Murphy, who poured in 2,548 points in three seasons at Niagara, feels the Rockets can beat the Los Angeles Lakers and the San Francisco Warriors in the NBA's Pacific Division race.

"The Lakers have the superstars, all right, but I think our team is just as good. Even if we don't finish first, I'm confident we'll be in the playoffs."

South Wins Classic Tilt

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel's most crucial decision for the Blue-Gray football game may have been made last week when he named his own quarterback, Tommy Suggs, as the Gray starter over the more publicized Bill Montgomery of Arkansas.

By the time Montgomery left the bench in the second period, Suggs had built a 14-0 lead with two touchdown passes as the Southerners rolled to a 38-7 victory, greatest rout in the history of the 32-year-old event.

Suggs, who packs 190 pounds on his 5-foot-9 frame, was named the game's outstanding player after rifling scoring shots of four yards to Tulane's Dave Abercrombie and 50 yards to Florida State's Don Pederson.

Suggs hit on 15 of 24 passes for 211 yards while Montgomery connected on only four of 16 for 43 yards.

"Tommy was more familiar with the plan than Montgomery and that is the reason that Bill might not have looked too good," said Dietzel. "If we had been running Arkansas' type of offense, then you would have seen the real Bill Montgomery."

Dietzel, who has worked nine all-star games, said, "This is the best team that I have worked with in a game of this type."

Decision on Berlin Was Eisenhower's

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Allied military documents made public last week show Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower alone made the decision that allowed Soviet armies to reach Berlin first during World War II.

New light was thrown on the decision made in 1945 by the release of Anglo-American chiefs of staff documents.

which had been classified top secret for 25 years. Among the documents were cables from Eisenhower, the supreme Allied commander in Europe, to Washington and to Soviet Premier Josef Stalin which indicated Eisenhower felt Berlin was not an important military target.

Stalin, in one exchange of documents, said he agreed with Eisenhower that Berlin had lost its strategic importance. He said his high command intended to allow only "secondary forces in the direction of Berlin."

Allied forces were halted at the Elbe River, and the Red army took Berlin May 2, 1945. The German High Command surrendered six days later.

A similar decision was made with respect to Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia. Eisenhower in both instances was fully backed by the U.S. chiefs of staff and former President Harry S. Truman.

British Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill and his chief military advisers objected. Nikita Khrushchev, in purporting memoirs published earlier this month in the United States, quoted Stalin as praising Eisenhower's "decency, generosity and chivalry" in the decision on Berlin.

"Stalin said that if it hadn't been for Eisenhower, we wouldn't have succeeded in capturing Berlin," the memoirs said.

The Memoirs said that if Eisenhower had not held back as Germany's Western front crumbled, "the question of Germany might have been decided differently and our position might have turned out a bit worse."

Many observers have held since World War II that the decision on Berlin had been a political one, possibly made months before. The chiefs of staff documents appear to dispute this.

Fatum's Offers Free Service For Invalids

KINGSTON

On New Year's Day, any person confined to a hospital, nursing home or infirmary in the City of Kingston will be transferred to their home for the day by Fatum's Ambulance Service without charge, it was announced today.

The program, which will be operated with the assistance of the Kingston Police Department and the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, is made available to any invalid who wishes to spend New Year's Day at home or with friends or relatives.

Persons utilizing the service will be transported back to their respective residences that evening.

The free program will also be available for New Paltz residents, with the cooperation of the New Paltz Police Department.

For further information, or to arrange for the service Jan. 1, interested city residents are asked to call Fatum's Ambulance Service at 27 Clinton Ave.

Dear Abby

Don't Tease About It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune.
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a young son with a slight speech problem about which the others kids tease him unmercifully. These are the same kids who tease other kids who happen to have a funny nose or something else that God put there and is beyond their control.

Now I ask you, who is the one with the problem? Kids can be the cruelest lot in the world. Abby, please print this letter and if just one person will quit teasing handicapped children, it will be worth it.

INDIANA MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I'll print your letter, and with it some advice for mothers of children with "slight speech problems, funny noses and something else that God put there and is beyond their control."

A child may be born with (or develop) a handicap, which may not be "beyond control." There are speech therapists who can help children (and adults) to overcome speech problems. And people with "funny noses" and birth blemishes need not go thru life hating their handicaps and suffering ridicule because of them. Don't assume that all handicaps must be accepted and lived with. We are living in an age of medical miracles! Your family doctor can make helpful recommendations.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a dilemma and need an outside opinion. My husband and I received an invitation to a high society wedding. We have two married daughters, Judy and Rosalie. Judy, who made a much better marriage than her sister, received an invitation to this wedding, but Rosalie did not.

My husband and I would really like to go, but I don't think we should when one of our daughters was slighted in this manner. Judy says that accepting or declining an invitation should have nothing to do with who else was invited and who wasn't, but as a mother, I see it differently.

My husband agrees with Judy. I think we should all stay home. What do you think?

A MOTHER'S HEART
DEAR HEART: I agree with Judy, too. In any case, you and your husband may accept or decline only for yourselves. And your married daughter has the same privilege.

DEAR ABBY: The company my husband works for put on a big sales contest, and my husband was one of those who won a 10-day trip to Europe. I could have gone along but he didn't tell me wives could go. When I heard that some of the men were taking their wives, I asked him about it and he said, "Well, what would you have done with the kids?" I told him if he had told me in time I would have been able to make some arrangements. Abby, if I were a person to be ashamed of, I could see why he wouldn't want to take me, but I am neat and dress nice and some people even think I'm pretty.

When I saw him off on the special plane they had for the trip, there were nearly as many wives as husbands. I was so hurt I wanted to die.

I hope this letter helps other husbands to remember the girl who loves him and takes care of him seven days a week.

LEFT BEHIND
DEAR LEFT: So do I.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day and evening for you to think in terms of organizing the practical and material aspects of your life. This will enable you to operate more efficiently. Also, you will be able to show those about you that you are endowed with good common sense that stands you in good stead always.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Involving yourself in career or government matters that are important is wise early in the morning and thereby make your position more enviable. Bigwig gives you backing that means a great deal.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting into new activities that will please persons who are important to your welfare makes this a most productive day. Using proven precepts impresses one favorably who thinks as you do. Stand up for whatever you think is right.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) It may mean hard work, but it is wise to start early and keep the promises you made to others. This makes a good impression on mate. He or she can then increase your happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Come to the right agreement with allies on the policy level and start an up-trend toward success. You get the backing of practical persons. Try not to lose your temper, especially at home. Be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Bein the hard-core work you have to do and forget all that playing around. Accomplish a great deal. Show co-workers that you are most efficient at your duties and gain their admiration.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) This is a day to do pretty much as you please and have a delightful time to spend with friends. Do a good deal of entertaining yourself. Some special attention shown to mate can yield fine favors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to put those ideas across now and get support of kin that has been impossible in the past. Find the right appliances that will make your house operate better. Have greater harmony there, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find safe and sane ways to get ideas across to others that mean a good deal to you. An ideal day for much activity, shopping. Keep appointments on time. Take it very easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have excellent ideas for adding to your income and security and if you put them in motion quickly, fine success can be yours. Listen to the suggestions made by experts. Show that you have ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show others that you admire them. State what your aims are and you gain their goodwill. Attend parties to which you are invited. Dress elegantly and make a good impression on others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you get together with experts in your field of endeavor and then when alone study how to make real progress, you get right results. Prepare for the future in a most practical way. Don't extravagant.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There has been much tension lately but now you are able to do those things which can help you to get ahead more quickly. Joining with those who admire you at hobbies is good. Raise your morale.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those persevering young people who has the willpower to gain whatever desires are uppermost in the consciousness. Although it may take some time to carry through with them, your offspring will not discourage easily and will have the vision to know that anything worthwhile is worth laboring for in order to gain success. A real genius at organizational matters.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for January is now ready. For a copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 679, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Patrick Henry made his famous revolutionary speech at the Virginia Convention, March 23, 1775. Calling for organizing the defenses of the colony, The World Almanac notes, Henry said: "Is life so dear, or sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WHITE BOOTS: (Q) I want a pair of white boots. The ones I want are 14 inches high, of white crinkle patent vinyl. They have a silver metal buckle on a strap. I want them to wear with my white fake fur coat. I got it last year.

But are white boots all right for winter? I have to wear whatever I buy until spring I can get the same boots in black or brown, but white is the color I want.—Shopping in Pennsylvania.

(A) Good news! White boots are in this winter. Black or brown is more practical, but if your heart is set on white you can wear them and be both in style and striking in appearance.

ABOUT LSD: (Comment) Please advise that girl who took acid was afraid of having abnormal babies to have a talk with her doctor. Don't let her believe she will produce a bunch of freaks. It isn't true.

I hope to God, though, that she will never take LSD again. It can really mess up your life. It isn't worth it. I know. I am afraid I will forever carry that horrible memory around. I pray to God that someday I will forget it.

I'm fine now, and have a beautiful, perfect baby girl. But it took a psychiatrist's help to regain my senses. Please, please let that girl know she's probably OK and will have normal babies.—One Who Has Been There in Norwalk, Conn.

(A) Thank you for pointing out that, although all the bad things said about it may not be correct, LSD is just not worth it.

Last summer the Journal of the American Medical Association reports on a study of 148 pregnancies. The three doctors who made the study said: "There is no evidence of a relation between parental LSD exposure and major congenital defects in their offspring in the present study."

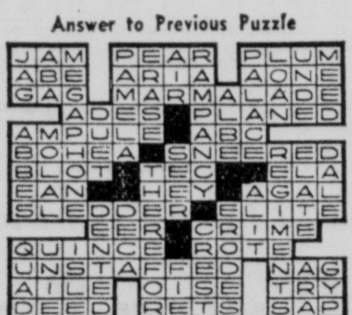

A study, of course, is not a guarantee. Anyone who has taken LSD should, as you suggest, talk to his or her personal physician.

Possession of LSD is against Federal Law.

'Adventure' Noble Try, But...

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC turned two hours of prime time television Monday night into a giant canvas on which it attempted to sketch an upbeat portrait of the United States and its people at the beginning of a new decade.

The huge subject, under the title "The American Adventure," was tackled by putting the spotlight on Columbus, Ohio and some of its citizens.

The programs style was familiar. A successful business man epitomized the Horatio Alger legend and was an example of the community-minded executive. A clergyman talked of awakening feelings about religion among youth. The police chief described the operations of his "Bill-of-Rights-minded" force.

But confusion lay in its de-tours and tangents: children learning to live with and love a computer; a short history of a race riot 18 months ago; a lecture by John W. Gardner, on Americans' involvement with their institutions. Suddenly the program would leave Columbus for California—for a bit about pollution control or urban renewal.

This free-wheeling approach gave the program its worst problems. A noble effort, it jumped all around and dragged at the same time. It was thoughtful, but somehow dull. Worst, it was grindingly talky since the producers handled most subjects by interviews and closeups.

Guy Lombardo, whose orchestra playing "Auld Lang Syne" is a New Year's Eve standard, guest making "a rare television appearance." Rita Hayworth will appear on her Feb. 1 show. She previously faced the TV cameras only for an interview with Sandoz Vanocur in the early days of "First Tuesday."

Carol's catch was the result of the comedienne's spoof of Miss Square as usual in Times Square to describe the crowds which seem to dwindle from year to year—cheering 1970 into history.

Carol Burnett really has a show.

Senate Votes Aid Monies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed early today a $1.8-billion appropriations bill providing $255 million in assistance for Cambodia and $500 million to help bolster the armed forces of Israel.

That bill was sent to President Nixon amid a burst of midnight speed that also produced an effort to settle the foreign policy dispute stalling the $66.6-billion defense appropriations bill.

In a scant 10 minutes, the Senate dealt with two issues that have been among the legislative tangles blocking the path to adjournment of the 91st Congress.

Another controversy was unraveled earlier Monday as the Senate dropped welfare reform and trade legislation in an attempt to beat the calendar and salvage a $6.5 billion-a-year increase in Social Security benefits.

The Social Security measure, on which a final vote could come late today, also would provide a $1-billion increase in welfare payments for some 3 million aged, blind and disabled Americans.

But, with the 91st Congress expiring at noon Sunday, little time is left for a House-Senate conference on Social Security.

The supplemental appropriations bill includes more than $1 billion worth of foreign aid for Asia and the Middle East. Its course was prepared before the Christmas recess, when Congress approved legislation authorizing the spending, but forbidding use of ground combat forces or military advisers in Cambodia.

The big defense money bill has been blocked by controversy about restrictions on the use of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia outside of South Vietnam.

In that one, the Senate had prohibited use of ground combat troops in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand. But in conference with the House a waiver was added, declaring the ban would not prevent President Nixon from taking any steps he deemed necessary to promote safe and orderly withdrawal of American forces from South Vietnam, or to win release of U.S. prisoners of war.

A bloc led by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., opposed that provision.

To get around the dispute, the Senate rejected the compromise defense money measure, forcing a new round of conferences with the House. The new negotiations are expected to produce a bill stripped of the waiver.

The long night's work left the stalemate over a $210-million appropriation for the supersonic transport plane as the major obstacle looming in the path of adjournment.

The $210-million figure for the SST was set by a conference committee after the Senate had cut off funds for the plane and the House approved the full $290 million asked by the Nixon administration.

The Social Security bill authorizes raises of 10 to 56 percent for about 26 million recipients, setting a new $100 minimum monthly individual payment and $150 for couples.

It faces an uncertain future in negotiating sessions with the House, which approved a 5 percent increase.

For more than six hours Monday night, the Senate whittled away at a stack of amendments to the bill, making one major change by raising to $2,400 a year the amount a Social Security recipient can earn without losing any of his benefits. That amendment, proposed by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., was approved on a 52-9 vote.

By prying Social Security increases loose from the bitterly contested family assistance program and restrictive trade legislation, the Senate managed to clear a route around one obstacle to adjournment.

The House and Senate already have adopted a resolution setting Jan. 21 as the convening date for the new Congress, and White House sources said President Nixon will sign it.

The White House had indicated earlier that if Nixon did not get the action he sought on stalled portions of his legislative program, particularly the family assistance program of welfare reform, he might veto the resolution and thus compel Congress to convene immediately.

The House reconvened today from its Christmas recess, anxious to adjourn for good.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the minority leader, warned that House members—and the quorum it takes to do business there—may soon become scarce.

"While they can't adjourn without us, they can leave without us," Scott said.

South Viets Halt Communist Assault

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese infantry battalion killed 74 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops early today in halting a major Communist assault on a town just inside the Cambodian border. The South Vietnamese lost 10 killed and 36 wounded.

Military spokesmen said the three-hour battle was at the town of A Bas, on Highway 6 and 80 miles north-northwest of Saigon and 85 miles east-northeast of Phnom Penh.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian troops killed almost at the same time killed 50 Communist troops and wounded 100 others in a battle for control of Highway 4, the nation's only land link with the port of Kompong Som.

Allied fighter-bombers and artillery supported the South Vietnamese troops in the battle near A Bas and the government troops reported capturing six crew-served and eight individual weapons along with ammunition, explosives and mines.

In Saigon, militant students today burned a U.S. Army bus in an attack with three molotov cocktails in Cholon, the city's Chinatown. The bus was empty except for the driver, who escaped injury.

In the battle on Highway 4 in Cambodia, the heaviest fighting still was in progress around Sre Klong and Talat, both around 50 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. Spokesmen said four Cambodian troops were killed and 17 wounded in the fighting.

The battle broke out Monday night after Communist forces launched two coordinated attacks against government troops trying to reopen the roadway, in Viet Cong and North Vietnamese hands for six weeks.

The shutdown of the 121-mile highway to the sea has left Phnom Penh with a gasoline, beer and rice shortage and has aggravated inflation in the capital.

Elsewhere on Cambodian battlefronts, the command reported eight Cambodians wounded Monday in a Communist attack on a college on the outskirts of Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city, 50 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

The attack came amid reports that at least six North Vietnamese battalions had moved into the areas around the city and Highway 7, its embattled road link with Phnom Penh.

Civilians returning from Kompong Cham reported sporadic rocket and mortar attacks have been launched against the city almost nightly.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, announced a new Cambodian government offensive aimed at protecting the December-January rice harvest.

"There are some North Vietnamese in the region along Highways 2 and 3," said Lt. Hing Ben, military political counselor at Tram Khar, 25 miles south of Phnom Penh. "But most of the enemy are Khmer Rouge."

Vows Tough Rivers Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continuing the United States should have bombed its way to a Vietnam victory when it had the chance, Rep. F. Edward Hebert has vowed to keep the House Armed Services Committee on the tough pro-military course set by its late chairman, L. Mendel Rivers.

The Louisiana Democrat, in line to succeed Rivers, who died Monday, also said the draft will not be ended, military spending must be increased with a modern Navy getting top priority, and he accused the military's critics of "ignorance and emotionalism."

President Nixon's plan to turn the war over to South Vietnam is the only course that can be pursued now, Hebert told newsmen.

But, he said, if his and Rivers' advice had been followed, the war would have ended in U.S. victory five years ago.

"We'd have bombed North Vietnam—we'd have destroyed anything of value to the enemy," Hebert said. "Haiphong harbor would have been the first thing hit. What makes the military-industrial complex in North Vietnam so sacrosanct?"

He said Nixon "inherited a sorry and unholy mess" and "he's pursuing the only policy he can: get out with honor."

"It's a military no-win policy," Hebert said, "but that's what was handed to him."

At the same time, the prospective House chairman said, "I'm not going to be policeman for the world," and suggested U.S. commitments abroad should be reassessed.

"The draft will not end," Hebert said flatly, and he added Nixon's proposed volunteer Army will not work because "you don't have the volunteers."

The House committee's first business next year, he said, will be to approve a bill extending the draft beyond its June 30 expiration.

Why Gamble With Our Air?

BUT

Do you know such plants generate electricity by using residual oil, known as #6? It has a substantial SULFUR content which is considered to be an air pollution problem.

HOWEVER

Homes that are heated with oil use a highly refined product (known as distillate oil #2) with only a "MICROSCOPIC" amount of sulfur—an amount of no significance whatsoever in air pollution.

The heating oil industry is determined to keep oil the cleanest, most dependable and economical fuel you can get, and will continue to refine heating oil of a quality that will have no air pollution effect.
